

King Fisherman Contest Starts Today

The 1964 edition of The Daily Colonist King Fisherman Contest started this morning at the crack of dawn and will continue until Oct. 31. More than 200 weigh-in stations—from Oak Bay to Port

McNeill, and from Parksville on the east coast to Tofino on the west coast—stand ready to weigh fish into the contest. Wherever you fish, you will find a handy weigh-in station. Actually the King Fisherman contest is seven contests in one: six monthly competitions for hidden-weight prizes and buttons for the biggest fish in each category; six-month-long contest for trophies for the biggest fish in each category and hidden-weight prizes, including a trip for two to New Zealand by Canadian Pacific Airlines, a weekend camping-fishing trip with Vancouver Island Helicopters, an aluminum carport boat and other prizes. (For best bets to catch contest fish this weekend, see

Alec Merriman's column on Page 15.) Everyone who fishes Vancouver Island waters, except holders of commercial fishing licenses and fishing guides, is eligible to enter the contest. You don't have to be a

Colonist subscriber to enter, but it pays to be a subscriber. Only Colonist subscribers are eligible for merchandise prizes like the New Zealand trip. Salmon must weigh five pounds or more and trout and bass one pound or more.

$50,000,000 Bond Issue For Peace

VANCOUVER (CP) — A new $50,000,000 provincial party bond issue to finance part of the Peace River hydro project was announced Thursday night by Premier Bennett.

The bonds will bear interest at five per cent and will go on sale here Aug. 1.

Bennett:

Socreds Outdo Them All

VANCOUVER (CP) — Premier Bennett said Thursday night the aim of his Social Credit government has been to provide British Columbians with "enlightened capitalism."

To this end, he said, Social Credit has tried to "take the best elements of every worthwhile point of view—the best of the so-called left, right and centre—and put them to work in meeting today's necessities and preparing for tomorrow's challenges."

ALL PARTIES OUTDONE

As a result, his government had been "more conservative than the Conservatives in financial matters, more liberal than the Liberals in terms of providing the nation's highest old-age and social assistance benefits, and even more in favor of public ownership than the CCF because of our ferry system and hydro program."

Speaking to Vancouver Junior Chamber of Commerce, the premier said the government expropriated the B.C. Electric Co. in 1961 because it had to choose between "high-cost private power and low-cost public power."

CHOICE OBVIOUS

He said power rates in B.C. were high because of corporation taxes the BCE had to pay to the federal government and because the BCE wasn't interested in "massive hydro developments that would make low-cost power a reality."

The government had finally decided that for B.C.'s development "the choice was obvious." "In fact, it was a choice between jobs and no jobs for our ever-increasing population."

Cuba Trade

Blunt LBJ Jars Butler

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson used a rather blunt approach to impress on British Foreign Secretary R. A. Butler U.S. annoyance at Britain's continued trade with Cuba.

It was learned that the president spoke with exceptional force when he met briefly with Butler in Washington earlier this week. It was understood Butler was somewhat taken aback with the president's direct approach.

RELATIONS AT LOW EBB

The episode led some observers to conclude that Britain's continued trade with Cuba had brought Anglo-American relations to a low ebb.

The U.S. reaction apparently came in the nature of a surprise to Butler.

WARNED BY RUSK

Butler received his first warning that trouble was on the way when he met Secretary of State Rusk.

Rusk told him President Johnson was annoyed Britain should sell not only additional buses to Cuba but also locomotives and cranes, protesting this trade was of insignificant proportion.

It is understood Rusk made the point that if this trade was small then why did Britain

ORDER: INTEGRATE

De Gaulle Goes Home

OTTAWA (CP)—Trans-Canada Air Lines and Canadian Pacific Airlines have been told to integrate their overseas services under a new air transport policy announced Thursday night by Transport Minister Pickersgill.

The new policy, announced to reporters after the Commons adjournment — a procedural wrangle took up the time in which Mr. Pickersgill planned to make the statement — advocated a non-competitive and non-conflicting plan for the international services of both airlines.

"In the international field, air services provided by Canadian airlines should serve the Canadian interest as a whole; these services should not be competitive or conflicting, but should represent a single integrated plan, which could be achieved by amalgamation, by partnership or by a clear division of fields of operation."

TALKS STARTED

Mr. Pickersgill said he met Monday with CNA President Donald Gordon, CPA President N. R. Crump, TCA President Gordon McGregor and CPA President Grant McConachie.

Talks between the two airlines started immediately, he said, and "very considerable clarification" could be expected by the end of May.

The transport minister said that any agreement reached between the two airlines on how

B.C. Foursome Held As Dope Smugglers

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Two men and two women, Canadians from the Vancouver area, were arrested on a heroin smuggling charge as they crossed the border from Tijuana, Mex., Thursday, customs agents said.

Four ounces of heroin were found hidden on the two women, agent John Maxcy said. He said the heroin would have been worth about $50,000 on the Canadian black market.

SUSPECTS

Arrested were James Campbell, 26, an unemployed bricklayer, Vancouver, his wife, Gloria Jean Campbell, 23, Richmond, Melody Joan Curtis, 22, Vancouver, and Thomas F. Berrigan, 39, Vancouver.

DRUG EQUIPMENT

Maxcy said narcotics paraphernalia was found in a motel room near the border which the Campbells occupied. He said Campbell had been under surveillance and had made a number of trips from Vancouver to Tijuana during the past year.

All four have been charged with smuggling heroin and a hearing before a U.S. commissioner was set for this afternoon.

'Closure' Cries Ring in House

OTTAWA (CP) — Amid cries of "closure," the Commons' experimental late-night adjournment debate session exploded into a procedural uproar Thursday night.

In spite of vain attempts by Deputy Speaker Lucien Lamoureux to maintain order, MPs wrangled over points of order and privilege with the result that only one of the scheduled three 10-minute debates took place.

STATEMENT BLOCKED

Transport Minister Pickersgill was precluded from making an expected statement on air policy in the Commons, and Health Macquarrie (PC — Queens) was unable to speak on the proposed Passamaquoddy power project.

The uproar broke out when Eugene Rheame (PC—Northwest Territories) tried to interrupt a question by David G. Hahn (L—Toronto Broadview) on air police on a point of privilege.

POINT OF PRIVILEGE

The deputy speaker said no points of privilege or order could be raised during the adjournment debates, which began for the first time last week.

Erik Nielsen (PC — Yukon) asked where the rules showed this to be so.

Newsman-Spy's Last Story

Only Canada's Rivers, Trees Like Russia

TORONTO (UPI) — The last article written for the Soviet newspaper Izvestia by ousted journalist Vasily Tarasov, ordered out of Canada for spying, emphasized that similarities between Russia and Canada ended after geographical considerations.

The translated article said: "It is only the landscape of Canada, its stormy or quietly-flowing rivers surrounded by forests and silvery birch growths, the dark green wall of coniferous trees that remind you of your homeland."

"All the rest has the standard stamp of the world which is called the West," the article added.

The article appeared in a recent weekly edition of Nedelya, the Sunday supplement of Izvestia.

The article about Canada — "Prosperity and Its Shadow" — told Russian readers that although Canada was a vast country, it had a population of only 19,000,000 and "is in constant need of immigrants to supplement its markets of a cheap labor force."

"This question is of such vast importance," the article added, "the government was forced to establish a special ministry."

Tarasov, speaking about the varieties of nations represented in the Canadian population, said all languages could be heard at "the counter of dime stores overloaded with inferior mass-produced merchandise. (It is assumed that in these stores one can obtain cheaply all the necessities for his families.)

"These languages also are heard at the show windows of the rich Wall Street-type establishment with their shouting, advertising merry-go-round from which arises anguish,"

12-Mile Limit Legislation Given Senate

OTTAWA (CP)—The government took its first legislative step Thursday towards establishing a 12-mile fishing limit along Canadian coasts.

It is aimed at booting foreign fishermen out of the rich offshore fisheries. They now can fish to within three miles of shore.

As a sideline, the move also will result in extending Canada's territorial waters farther out to sea.

FIRST READING

A bill setting out the principles of the plan was introduced in the Senate and given routine first reading without debate. The debating stage will come early next week.

Main point in the bill is the introduction of a new principle for measuring the three-mile territorial sea. The limits of the territorial sea now follow the twists and turns of the coastline, always three miles from shore.

CUTS ACROSS BAYS

The new principle involves a baseline drawn from headland to headland. This line will cut across the mouths of bays, inlets and channels and eliminate all the curves. In many cases it could run 30 miles and more from shore, sealing off large bodies of water such as the Gulf of St. Lawrence on the East and Hecate Strait on the West Coast.

NEW LIMITS

New limits for the territorial sea will be set three miles out from this baseline.

The fishing limit will extend out for another nine miles.

Target date for implementing the 12-mile limit is May 15, set last year by Prime Minister Pearson when he first announced that Canada would make the move.

The boy disappeared March 23 while on his way home from school.

MOST WANTED

Bryan, one of the FBI's 10 most wanted criminals who told authorities he likes "to see young boys tied up and screaming," was captured in New Orleans Tuesday. He had eight-year-old Dennis Burke of Humboldt, Tenn., in his custody, but the Burke boy was unharmed.

The 25-year-old Bryan is awaiting a removal hearing to South Carolina, where he faces charges in the kidnap-death of 10-year-old John David Robison of Mount Pleasant, S.C.

The Robison boy's body was found in a mangrove swamp Hallandale, Fla., near Miami, March 31, just eight days after the Wilson boy disappeared. Authorities are questioning

Bryan in connection with at least one other kidnapping.

The skeleton of the Wilson child was found scattered in an area dotted with semi-tropical scrub just off Highway 41. His clothing was nearby.

Cuba to Defend Self 'Whatever the Cost'

HAVANA (AP)—Premier flights to the limits of what our Castro has warned against more U.S. spy-plane flights over Cuba, declaring: "We will defend our sovereignty, whatever it may cost and wherever it may happen."

He said he is ready to seek a peaceful solution to problems with his North American neighbor but if the Americans want war "there will be war."

Castro made the statement during a four-hour talk with foreign correspondents and diplomats at a Japanese diplomatic reception that began Wednesday night and stretched into the early hours of Thursday.

SET FOR MAY DAY
His remarks set the stage for an address he will deliver today at Havana's big May Day celebration. Diplomats expect him to hit hard at the United States, which has announced the reconnaissance flights will continue despite Cuba protests. The Soviet Union has supported Cuba's protests.

"We will prevent these

He did not specify that meant Cuba would use Soviet rockets to try to bring down American planes.

In Washington, a state-department spokesman Thursday reaffirmed U.S. determination to continue the surveillance flights.

Without mentioning any definite date, the Cuban leader said the ground-to-air rockets now controlled by Russian "will be handed over to Cuba."

The spy-flight crisis arose from U.S. intelligence reports that departing Soviet troops are expected to turn over to Castro 24 high-powered anti-aircraft rocket installations.

NICOSIA (AP)—Reacting swiftly after a truce-breaking skirmish between Greek- and Turkish- Cypriots, Canadian members of the United Nations peace-keeping force planted 33 observation posts on the Kyrenia Mountains Thursday in an effort to discourage further fighting.

Roving UN patrols had failed to halt hostilities in that hottest sector of a war in Cyprus which UN Secretary-General U Thant now is trying to end through a new nine-point peace plan.

FOUR TO 36
Canadian infantry units ranging from four to 36 men manned the mountain posts. They were linked by scout cars and radio. A spokesman said the arrangement meant "a more active approach" by the UN force.

Under their orders from the United Nations in New York, the peace forces have tried to avoid moving in between the warring forces. This is because governments supplying the troops are unwilling to have them exposed to unnecessary risks.

MAIL THANT'S FILE
Both President Archbishop Makarios, a Greek-Cypriot, and Vice-President Fazil Kucuk, leader of the island's Turkish minority, hailed Thant's call for peace. But neither specifically appealed to their rival peoples to renounce the fighting, as the secretary-general urged.

A one-sided proclamation by President Makarios Wednesday of a cease-fire in the mountain battle—essentially for control of the highway between Nicosia and the port of Kyrenia—lasted less than 12 hours.

UN observers reported three Turks were killed and "one wounded in a pre-dawn engagement Thursday that developed west of the Turkish-held St. Hilarion Castle. They said a Turkish patrol moving west toward Greek siege positions in the dark was intercepted by a Greek force."

A government spokesman said the Turks had tried to launch an attack, taking advantage of the cease-fire, but were repulsed and abandoned arms.

Open Stores Or Else Strikers Told

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI)—Syrian premier Amin El Hafez yesterday issued an ultimatum in Damascus to striking shopkeepers to re-open their stores or face confiscation and military trial on charges of sabotage and undermining the public security.

The eight-day strike apparently collapsed and merchants began opening for business. The capital appeared to be returning to normal.

Gen. Hafez, leader of the Syria's Baath regime, warned that closed shops would be turned over to employees under state management with salaries paid by the government.

TWELVE OTHERS

In another development, a military tribunal in Damascus sentenced five retired army sergeants and four civilians to death on charges of spying for the United Arab Republic (UAR). Twelve other defendants were sentenced to terms at hard labor from two years to life. Other sentences were handed down in Aleppo in northern Syria against persons convicted of recent anti-government attacks on police stations there.

Start of Chain?

British Paper to Get Thomson Treatment

LONDON (CP)—After more than a decade in Britain, Baron Thomson of Fleet is all set to start applying his favorite technique to British newspapers. His pet project is to turn weeklies into dailies, following his Canadian practice, and the announcement Wednesday that he is to start an evening paper in the bustling Berkshire community of Reading may mark the start of a chain.

"I've had this idea in mind ever since I came to Britain," Lord Thomson said in an interview. "We've been so busy that this is my first chance to follow it up."

LARGER POPULATIONS

He said there is one difference between Britain and Canada—the "operating" here is much bigger because of larger populations in main centres. Reading, a thriving industrial city, has a population of about 120,000 and the publisher sees it, going up to 200,000 in a decade or so.

In Canada, Lord Thomson turned nine weekly papers into dailies—in the Ontario centres of Timmins, Kirkland Lake, Barrie, Oakville, Orillia and Pembroke, and in Kamloops, Kelowna and Penticton, all in British Columbia.

SEE PATTERN

Those who know Thomson predict that he will follow the Canadian pattern in a dozen or so British towns. Britain's press generally is more "national" than in Canada, with daily papers concentrated in big centres and circulating widely.

The big emphasis in any new Thomson dailies will be on local news.

LOCAL NEWS

"I propose to follow our Canadian practice to a considerable extent. Our solid strength will reside in local news. Brought to the people every day, news of the community will be as important as it is in Canada."

Thomson forecast an initial circulation of 50,000, fairly large by Canadian standards, when the Reading paper starts in about a year.

NEW BUILDINGS

The paper will start from scratch, with new buildings and equipment including the web offset method of printing, which affords scope for color. Before deciding to launch the daily, Thomson called for a thorough survey by his marketing and research organization, which spends nearly $1,000,000 a year and which he regards as the best of its kind in the world.

A Wise Move

FEW THINKING people will find cause to object to the provincial government's decision to introduce compulsory vehicle testing throughout British Columbia.

The frightening increase in the number of traffic deaths in the past decade has brought home to every responsible driver the realization that he is either a potential killer or a potential victim every time he takes his car on the road.

In 1963 alone traffic accidents on Canadian roads brought death to 4,207 persons and injured another 125,992, while in the past ten years nearly 33,000 Canadians have been killed and well over 860,000 others have been injured.

In the main these deaths and injuries have been caused by one or a combination of three things: faulty driving, faulty roads or faulty vehicles.

Though the major contributory factor toward traffic accidents lies in faulty driving—which is largely a matter of personal responsibility—traffic authorities across the country are moving rapidly to eliminate as far as possible the other causes. Highway departments are building safer roads and Motor Vehicles Branches are introducing road safety programs of which vehicle testing is a part.

The determination of the B.C. Motor Vehicle Branch to make such tests compulsory is a wise one. The minor inconvenience it will impose upon car owners will be more than offset by the substantial reduction it is likely to make in one of our growing road hazards.

Underlining the increasing danger of faulty vehicles is a recent report from the City of Vancouver, where car inspection is compulsory. During a six-month period, the report says, 178,405 inspections were carried out and the following defects were spotted by the inspectors: headlights, 21,477; brakes, 10,669; steering, 3,588; rear lights, 19,124; mufflers, 3,304; other items (windshield wipers, horn, rearview mirrors, tires, etc.), 3,890.

In Ontario, where car-checks are voluntary, Department of Transport officials reported last year that more than 30 per cent of the cars brought in failed the test and had to have troubles fixed before they returned for reinspection.

These reports alone provide ample reason for the B.C. Motor Vehicle Branch to institute its proposed compulsory inspection program.

It is only to be hoped that other provinces will follow suit.

Air Safety

IT IS HARDLY surprising that there should be some misgivings about the safety of the supersonic passenger aircraft now being designed on both sides of the Atlantic, by the United States on the one hand and Britain and France on the other, with the world market awaiting the first with the most. New and increased hazards are bound to enter into the operation of planes hurtling through the sky at around 1,800 miles an hour—half a mile a second.

It may be comforting, however, to recall that similar doubts existed in many minds about the subsonic jets and turbo-jets in the days when these were being developed and first put into service for passenger use, and to take a look at the record.

The International Civil Aviation Organization Council, reporting on the scheduled airline operations of the 103 member states (which do not include the Soviet Union or Communist China) says the fatality rate per 100 million passenger-miles in 1963 was .76, the lowest ever recorded. The year was the third in succession in which a substantial reduction in the rate was achieved.

The council further notes that, "If we consider the question of passenger safety—which is the most important objective for those concerned with public air transport—it is satisfactory to observe that the new jet aircraft, which are now responsible for about two-thirds of the passenger-kilometres performed on scheduled air services, account for only slightly more than one-third of the passenger fatalities. Exact statistics are not available, but it would seem clear that the gradual introduction of the large turbo-jet airliners has been an important factor in the reduction of world accident rates."

It might be stretching the point to conclude that passengers will be still safer when they cross countries and oceans at bullet-swiftness, but the figures would appear encouragingly to indicate that as the hazards climb in the competition for higher speed, the safety measures to overcome them grow beyond equal proportion.

More Espionage

IN THE FIRST war a British officer, later to become a field marshal, served for a time on the staff of the German forces in the East African campaign. This was a classic example of military espionage—but in wartime. Peacetime puts a different complexion on spying.

Spies there always have been, although probably never on the scale of today. Scarcely a month passes without some agent of a foreign power, or an individual so charged, being arrested somewhere.

Currently in Sweden that country has been alarmed over the discovered activities of one of its air force colonels, now on trial as a Soviet spy. He claims in fact to have been made a Soviet major-general in reward for his espionage, which illuminates the duality of the role he managed to play.

Closer to home, in Ottawa, another Soviet agent has been caught in the act, this time not a military man but a Moscow press correspondent who has enjoyed the freedom and facilities of the parliamentary press gallery. He attempted to bribe a federal civil servant who warned the RCMP and brought about his arrest in a planned arrangement which ostensibly handed him secret documents.

He is not to be put on trial here, which he might well have been and assuredly would be so in Moscow where the situation in reverse, but instead has been ordered to leave the country. That at least will remove him as a dangerous influence.

As this instance indicates, the Canadian civil service is vulnerable to the approach of espionage agents but fortunately the character of our government servants is a guarantee against subversion of their loyalties. There is a special responsibility, however, to be alert to insidious attempts to use them, even innocently, against the interests of their own country.

Thinking Aloud

and seeing what
of them and their

By TOM TAYLOR

ON a bright day, with the sun shining and how nice it would seem to ease in its rays, many a man has said "twas a pity he had to go to work. He doesn't really mean it, probably, but it's a pleasant passing whim to toy with. A Manitoba professor, however, unless he's speaking with his tongue at least slightly in his cheek, takes a dim view of work. And he looks forward to the day when automation makes idlers of the vast majority of people.

He seems great virtue in employment—or for that matter in work, he said. I had believed myself until now these were synonymous. But he will be glad if Adam's curse is lifted from man's brow.

Poor Adam. How easy to visit all our troubles on him. He never knew the half of it, really. And had no hand in them. But it was ordained he should sweat for his sustenance and that has been the lot of those who have come after him.

I will admit there are odd moments when it seems that no work at all would be a delightful beneficence, but only for a moment. "Would be a funny world if no one laid a hand or mind to labor, per se. Indeed 'twould be no world at all, for man would have simply passed out of existence had he never worked. No trade or profession would ever have eventuated.

The Manitoba professor himself wouldn't be a professor.

Mind you, automation is leaping to the forefront with disturbing potential where mass employment is concerned, and a fancy adjustment in human ways will have to evolve if society is mainly to live in idleness. The situation also contains a peculiar paradox, for the development of machines to develop workers coincides with an explosive increase in human population.

Which would suggest there is need for more jobs rather than the other way round.

The Greeks, says the professor, had the right idea: the ancient Greeks, that is, Greece in those pristine days was an example of a fully automated society, where the citizen's work was done by slaves while the masters were free to pursue art, thought and culture.

I am tempted to wonder who were the slaves. The hot polio, otherwise the majority of citizens? I rather doubt too that the privileged elite of ancient Greece were all devotees of the aesthetic arts.

In any case we can't have slaves, 'twould offend the modern conscience, although machines of course would be servants of another totem. These have no feelings even if they have uncanny aptitudes.

The professor says further, for instance, in pursuance of his thesis that work is not an unalloyed virtue, that unemployed laborers should be given free railway travel across Canada because this would spend their time in a highly creative manner, travel being so stimulating.

I wouldn't be surprised if they would much prefer to beg to a job.

Frankly, if the day ever came when the mass of people didn't have to work most of them would be bored to death. For there is virtue to be found in work.

He would seem to be a strange person who did not take some pleasure in the labors that encompass him, whether of brawn or brain. I'm willing to bet the professor himself has enjoyed his career and the distinction it brought him. And that would include the "work" efforts he had to put forth.

There is an old maxim, also, that needn't be stressed, but it has to do with the mischief that invites idle hands.

The professor adds that it's time to introduce a little discord in the long marriage between work and income. Proof isn't absent that discord does enter into this milieu as it is, but it's nothing to the upset when there's no income at all. And so far it's work that supplies the income.

There is one snag however, apt to await the era when automation is in such flood that the bulk of people have to be "kept"; they will be the elite, and the chaps tending the machines that keep them might take a dim view of their "slave" role.

Why shouldn't they have time to follow the pursuit of art, thought and culture too?

"See — our man has an anti-poverty campaign too."

ADMIRE him or detest him. Hate and fear him, or cherish and perhaps even almost worship him — and thousands of Canadians feel all those ways about him—you've got to admit that in the House of Commons, John Diefenbaker stands alone.

Towers, rather than stands, perhaps is more nearly the correct word for it.

There he is, a high head and shoulders above and beyond the Commons crowd.

And External Affairs Minister.

And Trade Minister Sharp.

And Justice Minister Pavaneau.

And the rest of the cabinet may run the federal administration and the country.

But John Diefenbaker still dominates the Commons.

He remains the bright and brittle star of Parliament.

He stood out as its most dramatic performer in the long 22 years of Conservative Opposition, playing the always exciting role of "Fighting John Diefenbaker," and completely outsparring such stellar parliamentary actors as Mackenzie King, Louis St. Laurent, C. D. Howe and Jack Pickersgill and company.

Then, of course, as prime minister, he made Parliament almost a one-man show.

He was so dominant, up to the final frantic days of that last frenzied year of power, as to become almost unforgettable.

So actually "unforgettable," back in fact, that Prime Minister Pearson and Paul Martin, still Frank Howard's.

How would you know anything about a Messiah?—not the man many in the House—still familiarly call "The Chief".... Indeed, how would anybody who, he recalled, had put himself down in the Parliamentary Guide as an "atheist," know?

Mr. Diefenbaker was a shade out, for Frank Howard had described himself in the official guide as an agnostic, back in 1959, dropping the reference in subsequent parliamentary editions.

Then just the other day Joe Greene, the senatorial-sounding Liberal MP from Renfrew, was fulminating in the old-world style that has caused the Lakehead's Douglas Fisher to refer to him as "The William Jennings Bryan of the Ottawa Valley."

But Mr. Diefenbaker did better than Fisher:

"Who is this," he asked, quoting from Job, "that darkens counsel with words without meaning?"

Joe Green subsided.

And when Paul Martin was rumbling, Mr. Diefenbaker went to the Acts of the Apostles for "Paul, Paul, thou art beside thyself."

Mr. Martin settled down.

When Mr. Diefenbaker is at the top of his free-wheeling verbal form, there's just no answer, because there's simply no one in the Commons, including the prime minister, who can come near matching him, cut for cutting, thrust.

In his home of Parliament, in Opposition, he still remains the man to beat.

Separate Libraries

Our Readers' Views

It has been suggested by a Sanich councillor that Sanich should set up its own library. I live in Sanich and have patronized the Victoria Public Library for 20 years with complete satisfaction.

The majority of the patrons of the library are elderly people probably on fixed incomes. Most of them arrive at the library by bus. The bus lines of Greater Victoria are like the spokes of a wheel, one can get a bus anywhere and arrive in downtown Victoria without transferring.

If Sanich builds its own library those who do not own a car will have to ride down town, get a transfer and then to the district in which the new library is built. The folks who own cars can reach any library without trouble. The people who would be penalized would be the very people who make the most use of the library.

The amounts now paid to Victoria for the efficient service we now obtain are small compared to the cost of building a new library and maintaining it.

Separate libraries means making a stick for our own backs in the shape of higher taxes. Who cares who owns the library if we each pay our share and get good service?

New Seats

Last week, two members of one of the minor opposition parties in the Commons, seeking new seating arrangements in the House, in an effort to make some quick contacts with their new found friends, moved, geographically, crabwise to their right; having just side-shuffled away from a minor opposition party of the Right—to join the major opposition party of the Right.

I would imagine, hearing dialogue to the effect that a particular political tide was on its way out!

As millions in the country have never had the opportunity, and pleasure—for indeed it is a pleasure—of seeing

Corenty Cathedral

Mr. Tom Taylor's eulogy of the Coventry Cathedral film, as a tribute of modern times, is appreciated. He mentions the original model shown here some years ago in a department store. It was Sir Basil Spence himself, the famous architect and originator of the design which won out in world-wide competition, who took the model on tour for all to see.

I well remember the conversation I had with him on that occasion from which it seemed doubly clear that here was a dedicated genius devoted to his creation as a labor of love in the Christian spirit. Those of us who saw an early release of this fine art-color film, some time ago, were impressed by the humility with which Her Majesty the Queen, as Head of the Church of England, and her spouse, just sat in their seats in the nave at that crowded ceremony, under the levelling influence by which all souls are equal in the sight of God. Oddly Enough

I Was an Afumiac

By PAUL JENNINGS

IT is common knowledge that, fraudulently, their country of revenue. (Distinction should be made between afumiacs and the rare born non-smokers, who of course exhibit none of these symptoms, but are provided by nature with a built-in "normalizer" similar in its effects to nicotine; the chemistry, or indeed the justice, of this is not yet understood.) Little by little I became a hardened afumiac. I grew fat with endless snacks of cheese sandwiches, mince and wine gums (some afumiacs even carry fingers of cold toasted cheese about in special containers. And one day I found I had crossed the dreaded "pride barrier." Once beyond this victim, when faced with the desire which a normal smoker would satisfy with a cigarette (and research has shown that this desire persists in people for 45 years after addiction to afumia) can only react by eating more bits of toasted cheese or, since cheese becomes absurd after a bit, by taking more lobeline. Lobeline itself is not habit-forming, of course; it is the afumia that is the addiction.

As its name implies, lobeline is made from lobellias. The kind sold at chemists' is called "buffered lobeline" and contains safeguards against a harmful side-effects. But hardened afumiacs, the only people in the world who are both fat and jumpy, tormented by the ever-receding hope of the 25 per cent extra work that was going to make them 25 per cent richer (actually they do 25 per cent less, waiting their time cutting cheese sandwiches, taking different colored wine gums from their mouths and staring at the sunlight through them, drawing little faces on their fingernails) often try to make their own.

Many unscrupulous suburban gardeners grow the lobellias and sell them at inflated prices. The police have closed down some of the seedier seedsmen's establishments which had become notorious for the crowds of pallid, fat, jumpy men, obviously not gardeners, that congregated there in the lobelia season. But this simply drove the traffic underground, and today many afumiacs get their "lob" from "pushers" and their contacts in the big cities. Some experiment with growing their own lobellias, making a crude paste from the dried seeds. But the complicated chemistry of the buffering process is beyond their scope, and many discover too late that one of the "side-effects" is that they turn the same color as lobellias.

It was only when I was beginning to turn blue myself that I was persuaded to attend a voluntary "smokers' clinic" where I was cured of afumia by hypnosis. All the hypnotist actually said was, "You can give it up if you try," over and over again; and I DID. Copyright, "The Observer," London, 1964

Dollar Morality

A Look at Dallas

By WILLIAM W. JOHNSON

DALLAS was not innocent in the grim events of last November. It was not as guilty as the flamboyant Melvin Belli said it was in his overwrought postscript to the trial of Jack Ruby. Still, Dallas was not innocent.

This is the burden of "Dallas Public and Private" (Grossman Publishers: $4.50) by Warren Leslie. It is the first book to take a searching post-assassination look at the city, its people and the strange supercharged emotional atmosphere of both Dallas and Texas. It is not a book that will stir pride or provide comfort, in Dallas or in the many other American cities which share Dallas' problems if not its grisly record.

The author examines, with a degree of care and objectivity laudable in a book that had to be written in a hurry, the social fabric, dynamics and psychology of fast-growing, ambitious Dallas.

He pays particular attention to the growth of well-groomed, well-fed extremism. Examples of the latter are reviewed—the familiar ones such as the physical assault on President (then Senator) Lyndon B. Johnson and UN Ambassador Adlai Stevenson; and the less familiar intellectual assault on the Dallas Public Library and the Dallas Museum of Fine Arts and the Neither of these had any connection with the twisted mind of Lee Oswald. But both are closely connected with (1) suspicions of Dallas, and (2) the feelings of guilt which, Leslie reports, afflicted Dallasites after the assassination.

Leslie has lived in Dallas many years, has been a newsmen, a novelist and an executive in the Neiman-Marcus store. He has a newsmen's sharp eye and questioning mind and a novelist's insight. As an executive he knew well the wheels and pinions that make Dallas move. He is neither a scold nor a polemicist. His scrutiny of Dallas is tempered with sympathy and understanding but not distorted by them. The resulting book is a distinguished example of depth journalism, that chronically misused phrase which can here be used accurately. It also is a foundation stone for the body of literature that will, inevitably, grow up around that nightmare in November.

BACKGROUND

Battleship of Babel Sets Sail Next Month

By HAROLD MORRISON

Early in June, sailors from a number of North Atlantic countries will begin an experiment in community relations that may have a profound impact on the future of the North Atlantic alliance.

The answer these sailors will provide will determine whether men from different countries, speaking different languages and molded under different cultures can work as a cohesive team in close quarters for the common purpose of joint defence.

The sailors, drawn from Britain, Italy, West Germany, The Netherlands, Turkey, Greece and the U.S., will be put aboard the U.S. destroyer Biddle, to decide whether a NATO multi-national, mixed-manned nuclear force is workable.

This will be the first experimental stage of a proposal that first was introduced by the U.S. almost four years ago and which was re-emphasized by the late president John F. Kennedy during his Ottawa visit in May, 1961.

The object of the proposal was clearly one of attempting to quieten grumblings within the alliance Europe had no voice in the American nuclear deterrent force which, in effect, was the deterrent force for Europe as well. The proposal also was designed to meet the threat of NATO disintegration during a period of world quietude.

Through the years the U.S. tended to believe the mere discussion of a multi-national nuclear force would be itself head of European disintegration.

In fact, every time NATO headed towards a crisis in unity, the U.S. seemed to attempt to steer NATO attention towards the vision of a fleet of 25 nuclear ships, armed with Polaris missiles, patrolling the seas as an important part of the entire strategic defence against the Soviet Union.

But the threat of weakening in NATO unity did not disappear. France, which long has demanded a major role in the control of western nuclear power, now has withdrawn its naval affiliation from the NATO military command.

This withdrawal is not by itself important, for the move was anticipated and in fact France previously had withdrawn the ships and now only completed the move by removing her naval officers from NATO headquarters.

But American authorities, while playing down the public image of NATO disintegration, privately expressed deepening concern over the French move. What was needed, they said, is some counter-action to demonstrate NATO cohesion.

French President de Gaulle may therefore have given the multi-national nuclear force concept a boost. The U.S. will be pressing hard to make the June experiment work, not so much because of the military importance of the nuclear force concept but because of the need to demonstrate NATO unity.

The sailors, drawn from varying environments, will train with a conventional type of guided missile. This has become necessary as a substitute for the nuclear-tipped Polaris missiles proposed for the 25-ship force for the simple reason there is not as yet any surface ship equipped with Polaris missiles.

Once the sailors show they can work and live together and once a portion of the NATO alliance agree to participate in a surface ship force, the U.S. maintains it will be a relatively simple task to build the ships and equip them with Polaris weapons.

Attitude to Indonesia Unaffected By Minister's Resignation

Worried Australia Stands Firm

By DENNIS BLOODWORTH From Singapore

The abrupt departure of Sir Garfield Barwick from the ministry of external affairs in Canberra last week is unlikely to mean that Australian policy toward Indonesia's aggressive "confrontation" of Malaysia will soften.

As minister of defence, his successor, Paul Hasluck, was closely associated with Sir Garfield's recent promises of immediate military aid for Malaysia and his warning to Djakarta that if Australian forces came under attack the United States would be bound to go to their help under the ANZUS (Australia, New Zealand, U.S.) mutual defence pact.

Two Australian minesweepers and an engineer construction squadron of 200 men are expected to arrive in North Borneo, where British and Malaysian troops are skirmishing in thick jungle with armed terrorists from neighboring Indonesia. Troop helicopters and the regular Australian battalion in reserve in the peninsula of Malaya will also be available for support roles so that Anglo-Malaysian air force and army units can be released for the "front."

So far Djakarta has reacted sourly, but only verbally. But in Djakarta the Australians are watchful. For since the Indonesians first introduced hoodlums as an extension of diplomacy the slightest strain in foreign relations has led to violence.

In past years the Indian embassy has been stormed and the Philippine embassy had to be protected when a Manila magazine accused President Sukarno of wanting to include the Philippines within "Greater Indonesia." The American consulate and information service offices in Surabaja have been wrecked by mobs encouraged to protest Washington's policy over Cuba, and the British embassy was razed last August while police and firemen looked on. Nor is this list exhaustive.

As some worried Australian officials point with misgiving, Canberra risks more than this. Australia, with a population of about 10,000,000, is an uncomfortably near neighbor of Indonesia; its 100,000,000 people led by a president whom many consider dangerously intoxicated by grandiose dreams of empire. Moreover, Australia, Papua and New Guinea share a 500-mile frontier with "West Irian," the Indonesian province President Sukarno won from the Dutch a year ago.

Last week General Abdul Haris Nasution, the Indonesian defence minister said: "It would be very dangerous for Australia to send units to Malaysia without due attention to the defence of her home territory."

Indonesia's bragadocio is encouraged by the anxiety of the anti-Communist powers to settle the Malaysian fracas peacefully and do nothing to risk their remaining influence with Djakarta by offending President Sukarno.

Britain, Europe

Johnson Critics Vocal Before Inhumane Action

By JOSEPH MACSWEEN, from London

Newspaper stories—plus photos and cartoons—of President Johnson lifting a dog by the ears have coincided with a spate of criticism of the American chief of state in Britain and elsewhere.

Johnson, of course, has been under the European and British microscope since he succeeded the much-loved John F. Kennedy and he can be sure of immediate scorn if he does anything considered unworthy of the assassinated leader.

A cartoon in a British newspaper shows Cuba's Fidel Castro holding Johnson by the ears and the left-wing weekly New Statesman expresses a similar concept in a different way.

Kennedy, the magazine says, had reduced the risk that the Cuban revolution would export itself and so provoke a violent U.S. response.

"Now the confidence of Latin-American Democrats in Washington has evaporated, and the U.S. administration finds itself committed to the indefensible theory that it has a natural right to infringe Cuban sovereignty by overflights."

The magazine suggests unless Kennedy's policies are restored soon "cold war may once more break into violent flame" in the Western Hemisphere.

In West Germany, anger has been stirred by a Johnson magazine interview in which he is reported to have advised Chancellor Erhard to do everything possible to get nearer to the Russians.

"Put yourself in the Russians' place," Johnson is quoted. "Try to understand their feelings. They have a real fear of Germany."

As it happens, Erhard's stock is high just now after regional elections showed to his credit and the Germans may feel he shouldn't be told how to do his job.

Anyway, the important newspaper Frankfurter Allgemeine Zeitung remarks:

"Johnson should show more reserve. A magazine interview isn't the best way of informing the German people."

Mary, Mary Quite Contrary Where Does Garbage Go?

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mary, Mary, quite contrary, where does your garbage go? Don't ask.

It's an embarrassing question for some, others don't even tell their hairdressers, and many don't know.

Prominent among 1,600 outside workers entering the second week of a strike are the garbage collectors.

ROOM PACKED

The Hotel Vancouver has a refrigerated, 20-foot-square room packed with the stuff.

Says Tom McKelvie, general manager: "If this thing doesn't soon end, we're going to be in serious trouble."

Pig farmers — the truck-driving scavengers — are the new heroes of the restaurateurs.

RUSHED OFF FEET

Private garbage collectors are rushed off their feet, but their customers are uniformly ignorant as to the destination of the refuse being picked up at the back door. If it's the city dump, it means crossing the union picket line, and if it's a suburban dump, it's breaking the law.

Women are advised to burn the burnable, flatten tin cans, and bury them in loss rough of the rest into a perpetually simmering soup pot. One concocted a garbage hat.

People have heaved their over Lions Gate bridge and into gondola cars on eastbound freights.

Dispassionate in the quarrel, the public has made dumping grounds of a union leader's lawn and City Hall steps.

A man tied up a garbage prevent in tissue and ribbons and drove to Skid Road, where he left it sitting invitingly in the back seat. It was stolen.

Victoria-Born

UBC Dean Strike Mediator

Victoria-born Dr. Neil Perry, dean of commerce and vice-president of University of British Columbia, yesterday was named a special mediator in the strike of Vancouver garbage workers.

Labour Minister Peterson, who tried unsuccessfully to solve the dispute last week, named Dr. Perry to the role of government mediator and said he will "drop everything" to get on with the task.

The appointment makes Dr. Perry an industrial commissioner under the B.C. Labor Relations Act.

PUBLIC REPORT
He will first try to settle the dispute and, if that fails, will make public his report on the situation.

Mr. Peterson hoped the strikers would return to work during the mediator's investigation so that there would be no further threat to public health as a result of the curtailment of garbage collection.

First Aiders Led to Top By Sooke Man

A Black Watch corporal from Sooke led his five-man squad of first aid experts to the top of the annual St. John Ambulance competition at Camp Gagetown, N.B., this week.

Cpl. Ernie Cunningham will now captain his team in the Mary Otter tourney, a national competition which pits them against the best military teams from all across Canada.

The winners registered 527 of a possible 600 points to finish ahead of 3 Canadian Infantry Brigade Group's service battalion squad which placed second with 503 points.

Entries were judged by an army medical team which posed realistic vehicle accidents and evaluated the men's action when they suddenly came face-to-face

Honorary Medicine Man Protests Beach Closure

John Hamilton, of Devonshire House, Port Street, an honorary member of the Society of Fools (medicine men), of the Kwakwaka'wakw tribe, has added his voice to those raised in protest against the closure of Botanical Beach.

Mr. Hamilton, who was adopted into the tribe by the late Mungo Martin, says that streams and Indian trails are rights-of-way and he's looking up old maps to determine location of these trails.

Closure of access to the beach represents "loss of civil rights," Mr. Hamilton said.

Quebec's 'French Only' Attitude Seen as Canada's Big Wedge

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — The royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism was told Thursday Quebec refuses to converse with the rest of the country and that's perhaps the big factor in the difficulties wedged between Canada's two main ethnic groups.

The opinion was expressed by some of the 250 persons who took part in a regional hearing by the commission. Later they broke into two groups to study some of the issues.

Windsor is an industrial centre of 115,000 population in Southwestern Ontario. About 20,000 inhabitants are of French-speaking origin, making them the largest minority group.

Participants in the session gave personal experiences to support their statements that Quebecers refuse to meet with their English-speaking countrymen.

A woman who lived in Thetford Mines, Que., for 14 years said the French-speaking Canadians were amiable and hospitable but they simply refused to speak English.

She said she started to take French-language lessons but she abandoned them because the French-Canadians did not make an effort to match her with English.

Others said they found a similar resistance in Montreal but in Quebec City the situation was different, probably because the ancient walled provincial capital was an important tourist centre.

Andre Laurendeau, co-chairman of the commission, said prior to the opening of the session that the main function of the commission is to find out if English- and French-speaking Canadians want to and can live together.

If they could, under what conditions, and were these conditions acceptable to both groups?

Mr. Laurendeau said the commission's mandate also extends to another vital area and this is cultures other than English or French. These were part of the picture.

First Prizes Old Stuff For NCO Course Winner

L.Cpl. Trevor Lloyd Harris, 24, of the 1st Battalion, Queen's Own Rifles of Canada, came first in a class of 211 at the army's junior NCO course at Wainwright, Alta., recently.

But this was old stuff to him. In Germany last August he won the leadership trophy with highest marks in the battalion's drill and duty course.

In August, 1961, he made the highest marks in the recent course of 43 soldiers at Currie Barracks in Calgary.

He was also top scorer in the army's brigade basketball league in Germany last year, and attended the U.S. Air Force's basketball training school in Europe.

He's been at it for some time, having made his mark at Booth Memorial High School in Prince Rupert in softball, swimming, boxing, track and field.

Scots Prefer Welsh Dish

LONDON (UPI) — Leeks—the Welsh national emblem—are twice as popular as a vegetable in Scotland as in Wales, according to a survey reported in Faculty Doctor by Dr. Roland Harper of Leeds University.

Non-Alcoholic

Nightclub Welcomes Youth

NEW YORK (AP)—A non-alcoholic nightclub for teenagers has been opened in the Times Square area by a father of three who thinks youngsters need a break.

An auditor for a shipping company by day, Angelo Barone, 50, at night becomes the proprietor of Teen Haven.

MORE ATTENTION
"Youngsters never get a break," Barone said, when asked why he chose to start a club for teenagers in one of the most expensive locations in the city. "If we'd pay more attention to them, we wouldn't have the problems we have today."

Teen Haven, on Broadway between 48th and 49th streets, caters only to patrons between 16 and 20. It features the soft lights, decor and music for the grown-up nightclub which is surrounded by, but alcoholic beverages are forbidden.

TWO WEEKS AGO
The club, which opened two weeks ago, has a capacity of 300 and is open five nights a week and on Sunday afternoons. It is closed on Monday evenings.

The bar is a soda fountain offering such concoctions as a suicide special, a syrupy ice cream soda, for 60 cents. The menu lists such standards as hamburgers for 65 cents and pizza for $1.

Barone's entertainers include combos and singing groups from high schools in the metropolitan area.

Elderly Protest 'Old Age'

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadians over 65 would be a lot happier with any other title than "old age," argued H. Russell MacEwan in the Commons.

Main complaint of the 38-year-old Conservative MP for Pictou, N.S., was the names of the Old Age Assistance Act and the Old Age Security Act.

Stanley Knowles (NDP, Winnipeg North Centre) suggested "retirement security act."

WHERE TO NEXT?
J. J. Green (L, Renfrew South) was wary about where this concern over pleasant names for statutes might lead. The Criminal Code, he said, might have to be called "an act for the good citizens who have temporarily strayed from the straight and narrow."

Mr. MacEwan's proposal was talked out in the allotted hour.

GIs Get Instant Foxhole

COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP)—The U.S. Army has come up with a successful device destined to gladden the heart of every infantryman—an instant foxhole.

To dig a proper foxhole in the past, a soldier needed a pick, shovel and stamina.

A team from the U.S. Combat Development Command's infantry agency put the new development on display Wednesday at Fort Benning.

TWO PARTS
The one-pound foxhole digger comes in two parts—a first part for blasting a small hole two inches in diameter and several inches deep. This is known as a pilot hole.

The second part of the device is placed in the pilot hole, a primer is set, and the soldier gets out of the way for about 30 seconds while a cratering explosion digs the foxhole.

Giant Telescope for B.C.

A $9,671,000 telescope, second largest in the world, will probably be erected in the B.C. Interior, but should not affect operation of the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory on Little Saanich Mountain, senior scientific officer Dr. Graham Odgers said last night.

"There will still be a lot of useful work this observatory can do," he said. "In any event, the new telescope wouldn't be completed for six or seven years."

STUDYING SITES

Mines Minister Benadickson said in Ottawa yesterday his department is studying possible sites for the telescope.

Dr. Odgers has been looking for suitable sites over the past 18 months, travelling by Land Rover and carrying a portable telescope.

"There is no decision as yet," he said. "It will probably be made within a few months."

The Kamloops and southern Okanagan areas would be suitable he said. The site must be above the local dust and disturbed air, usually 6,000 to 7,000 feet, and must be in a region free of fast-moving weather fronts.

DRY, CLEAR

Other requirements are that it be away from industrial areas and large population centres. Low rainfall and clear skies are essential.

Mr. Benadickson, in a written Commons reply to Marcel Lambert (P.C., Edmonton West), said the Dominion Observatory has proposed that a large optical telescope of at least 150 inches in diameter be built in Canada.

"We presented a brief to the

the acquisition of a very large reflecting telescope."

A 150-inch telescope would be second only to the 208-inch one at Palomar, Calif.

The mines minister said that if constructed, the new telescope would be available on equal terms to astronomers from every province, and would take from six to seven years to build.

60 YEARS AGO

The observatory on Little Saanich Mountain was planned more than 50 years ago, when city lights and smoke were not a problem, Dr. Odgers said.

"We are now able to look at sites that were inaccessible 50 years ago," he said. "We've been taking observations with our portable telescope on various mountain tops in the interior of B.C. and have already found some promising locations for the observatory."

That Chap in Trunk Just Lending a Hand

LONDON (UPI) — A man's hand dangled from the trunk of a car travelling into London along a highway late at night. Three emergency calls alerted police, who stopped the automobile as it entered the city limits. The driver explained: "The chap in the trunk is operating the gasoline pump—it's faulty. He's keeping one hand outside to prevent the trunk locking."

Celestial Crash

Violent as H-Bomb

WASHINGTON (AP)—Scientists say there is a chance the earth may be struck with a H-bomb-like force by one of a group of mysterious celestial objects, at any time ranging from tomorrow to millions of years from now.

The objects, eight in number and believed to be either asteroids or parts of comets, range in size from three-fifths of a mile to about four miles in diameter.

Dr. James R. Arnold of the University of California, San Diego, told a press conference at the annual meeting of the National Academy of Sciences Wednesday.

"I would hope that if one collides with the earth, it would happen in a very remote place and that it also would occur during a relative calm in international relations—because it would look extremely like the explosion of a very large bomb."

Dr. Edward Anders of the University of Chicago touched off the discussion. He said the eight objects are tentatively called the "Apollo asteroids," and their orbits intersect the earth's orbital pathway.

Chimera Cheaper Than Three Dogs

VANCOUVER (CP)—If city hall wants to play games, Dale Proud is one guy who can stay a jump ahead.

An operative from the city found, after cursory inspection around Proud's home, reported that the family kept three female dogs. In time Proud received a letter saying he had to buy $35.25 worth of licences or risk a court summons.

Now, Dale Proud has only two dogs. City hall had discovered a mythical pet, a sort of chimera, you might say.

Proud promptly sent $2 to city hall asking a licence for a chimera.

Commons Postage Boost Opposed

OTTAWA (UPI) — Postmaster General John Nicholson yesterday ran into strong opposition with his proposal to increase local first-class letter delivery rates from four to five cents.

Introducing the resolution which would bring the first-class rate to a uniform five cents for both local and national mail, Nicholson said the move was part of the department's effort to bring revenue into line with expenses.

ANOTHER PLAN

Another proposal would extend a special rate of one and one-half cents per pound for cultural, fisheries and forestry publications now granted to publications devoted to religion, science and agriculture.

Finally he proposed a repeal of the local second-class postal rates for newspapers and periodicals published weekly or less frequently. A minimum rate would be applicable to each piece of mail rather than a poundage rate.

Opposition members took issue mainly with the one-cent increase in first-class local delivery.

Wrinkle Smoother Seized

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Food and Drug Administration announced Thursday seizure of a quantity of Helene Curtis Magic Secret wrinkle-smoothing skin lotion on charges that it is a new drug not covered by an approved application and is being marketed under false claims.

The agency said the product is a drug rather than a cosmetic and moved against it in federal court under provisions of drug regulatory laws.

38 CARTONS

FDA said U.S. marshals seized over 35 cartons of the product from a dealer in Baltimore Thursday.

The product was shipped in inter-state commerce, FDA said, by Helene Curtis Industries, Inc., beauty salon division, from Chicago.

The agency said several similar products have been placed on the market since the first of the year and others were reported planned. Those on the market are being investigated, the spokesman said.

Missiles Provide Pay-Dirt

LONDON (AP) — The British government has admitted that one of its major missile builders reaped an "excessive and unjustified profit" of 63 per cent on a contract for the Bloodhound anti-aircraft missile.

The admission came from Aviation Minister Julian Amery in a House of Commons debate Wednesday night on the contract with Ferranti Ltd., a major defence firm.

ELECTION PAY DIRT

Members of the opposition Labor party sniffed election-year pay-dirt in the affair. James Callaghan, Labor spokesman on finance, told the House: "One thing is clear—this myth of the Conservative party being good businessmen and administrators. I wouldn't trust them with a Sunday school collection."

But Labor's motion of censure was beaten 302 to 236, a government majority of 66.

Mutiny Trial Begins

BARI, Italy (AP) — A mutiny trial began Thursday for 165 seamen, almost the entire crew of the Italian ocean liner Toscana, who refused to sail on a return voyage from Australia five years ago.

The Lloyd Triestino Line filed the mutiny charges after its 9,500-ton passenger ship was stranded at Melbourne several days in June, 1959.

The crew members said they complied with a strike call by their unions in Italy to seek higher wages and other benefits.

Only four of the defendants were in the courtroom. The others were at sea on various ships. The next hearing was set for May 23.

Richard Pailha, 1452 Simon, was fined the minimum $50 yesterday after pleading guilty in Saanich court to unlawfully discharging a rifle within Saanich municipal boundaries.

He told court he had been shooting at tin cans and rats in his yard, and did not know this was against the law.

TWO WOMEN IN HIS LIFE

Most of the regular customers at Johnny's Restaurant know Mary. And many think she is Johnny's wife.

She isn't. She's his sister. She has been with Johnny since 1942.

Johnny's wife Frances has never worked in the shop. She's rather busy at home raising their six children. But she has helped as the business has grown.

"I would never have been able to get along without the great faith my wife has in me and the encouragement she has always offered to help me out," Johnny said.

Space Still Available In Block

Although tenants were moving into the new Alexis Block at the corner of Quadra and Fort as fast as the contractors, Dillabough and Luney, could get it ready for them, there is still space available.

F. H. Brown & Sons Ltd., agents for the building, say it is particularly suitable to professional offices, especially lawyers, since it is so close to the Law Courts.

Centrally located, the Alexis Block offers covered parking and elevator service from the parking level.

In the course of reconstruction, the former Quadra Apartment building was gutted so that only four walls remained. It was changed from stud-wall construction to post-and-beam.

The former Holden building was razed—papers found in its walls were dated 1938—and the new building there incorporated into the new Alexis Block.

Newfie Bite

The practice of vegetarianism dates back at least to the serious disagreements with the Canadian government. Many of these differences concerned Newfoundland's relations with the United States, the Encyclopedia Americana tells us, and the arguments became most heated when matters of tariffs and of fisheries regulations were concerned.

NEWEST ADDITION to Fort Street is Alexis Block at Quadra Street intersection. Long-time site of well-known Johnny's Coffee Shop, the building now provides office space on two upper floors, with covered parking at ground level off Quadra Street. New building is virtually a complete reconstruction of the former apartment block that had stood on the corner from 1911, and absorbed the former Holden Building.

Johnny Alexis Still At Same Old Stand

But Third Generation Is Already Knocking

Not only has Johnny's Coffee Shop been located in the same place longer than most if not all Victoria businesses, but the third generation of the family is already knocking on the door of the operation.

But it will be a while yet before the second generation, in the person of Johnny Alexis himself, moves over to make room in his expanding new quarters for his 17-year-old son Ted.

After all, having built his new building he would like to stick around and enjoy it for a while. Besides, he has become rather attached to the scene that passes outside his door.

BORN TO IT

He's been there long enough to get attached to it. He was born to it, in a way.

His father, Theodore Alexis, came to Victoria from Greece in 1907, and after working for the city for two years opened the Empress Confectionery on Government Street.

Two years later, construction of a new building forced the elder Alexis to make the business' first and only move. In 1911, the confectionery moved into the Quadra Apartments, at Fort and Quadra, before the building was completely finished.

ICE-CREAM PARLOR

There it became an ice-cream parlor. Next door was the Holden Building, which in the 1880s had been a cigar factory. From then on the story has been a chronicle of steady progress.

The family lived at the time on Chester Avenue, then called Cambridge, and it was there in 1914 that John Alexis was born. (And his life has come full circle, for when he married in 1946 he built his home near Dallas Road — on the present Cambridge Street.)

In 1916 came one of the early indications of the Alexis family tradition of never closing down come wind or wild weather.

SIX-FOOT SNOW

That was the year of the six-foot snowfall and it took Theodore Alexis four hours to shovel his way from home to shop.

John worked in the business from the time he was old enough. Then, in 1934, a year after he graduated from Victoria High School, his father became ill and Johnny took over the operation.

In 1938 he converted it to a coffee shop and John's own tradition began to grow.

In 1941 he enlarged the premises, put in booths and laid out a small dance floor. Johnny's became a favorite rendezvous for hockey players and servicemen.

"It was well known in those days," he recalls.

In 1942 his sister Mary joined him.

BOUGHT BUILDING

In 1943, during his three years overseas in the army, he bought the Quadra Building from Max Leiser.

In 1946 he undertook yet another renovation, to create the Johnny's Coffee Shop that was known for 15 years until the present move.

Then last year he began planning again.

"I could see that to keep in step was time to get a proper building and a modern shop," he said.

He bought the Holden property next door and during the eight-month renovation not only stayed open but kept his customers.

COFFEE IN RAIN

"For a while we didn't have a roof over our heads," Johnny grins, "and I've seen the customers sit drinking their coffee while the rain dripped on the counter in front of it."

"I don't know why they kept coming, but I'm grateful that they did."

Now Johnny's is still open for business, without losing a day, and the modern new premises haven't changed the personal aspect of service at Johnny's. His staff of nine is still with him, many of them for 10 years and more.

ONE NEW FACE

There is one new face, of course. It's that third generation. Johnny's eldest son, Theodore, 17, is at the shop in all his spare moments.

"He wants to take over already," Johnny says proudly. "That will be the third generation in the same business in the same place."

"But not for a while yet," he adds hastily.

Studio Just Kept on Snapping

It wasn't easy, but Chevron Studios kept on taking pictures during the whole eight months that the Alexis Block was completely rebuilt around them.

The photographers were, apart from Johnny's Restaurant, the only commercial tenants in the old building. The studio was formerly located where the lobby now is.

Their new studios had first to be built behind, then the photo studio moved before the present lobby, with its newsstand, could be built.

Cliff Heglin, Chevron's manager, feels the difficulties of the change have been repaid.

"We now have a covered, drive-in parking area, which is important where wedding photographs are concerned," he said.

Gardner Insurance Agency of fices are now located on the corner where John's Coffee Shop was.

Five All-Star Positions To Vanquished Hawks

MONTREAL (CP) — Chicago Black Hawks, who just missed first place in the National Hockey League this year and then were knocked out in the Stanley Cup semi-final, got some solace for their wounds Thursday, taking all but one spot on the NHL's first all-star team.

Only defenceman Tim Horton of Toronto Maple Leafs, winners of the Stanley Cup, was able to convince sports writers and broadcasters in the six NHL cities that he deserves a place at the top.

There was one unanimous choice—Bobby Hull, the Black Hawk left winger who polled a perfect 180 points, 90 in each half of the season. One Black Hawk also made the second team, defenceman Elmer Vasko.

The teams, with points received bracketed:

MORE MONEY The Black Hawks chosen on the two teams will get more than just a balm for their injured pride. Each member of the first team gets $1,000 and everyone on the second team $500. In addition, first-team members on the mid-season vote get $500 and the runners-up $250. Those who led the second-half voting also get $500 and the runners-up $250.

MIKITA MOVES UP The final first team is the same as the mid-season one except for Mikita, who moved from the second-team berth to oust Beliveau.

Changes on the second team include Beliveau for Mikita, and the absence of goaltender Johnny Bower of Toronto, defenceman Bob Baun of Toronto and left winger Dave Balon of Montreal. Bower, who led the goaltending balloting in the second half, ousted Bower, Balon dropped from the tie he had held with Mahovlich in the first half and rookie Laperriere beat out Baun.

Other leaders in the second-half voting, and thus winners of $500, are Pilote, Horton, Mikita, Hull and Wharram and Howe.

Wharram and Howe had an identical 90 points, but Wharram received nine first-place votes to Howe's eight and thus was given the first-team distinction.

This is the 15th time a record—Howe has been an all-star. He and retired Maurice Richard of Montreal shared the old mark. Howe and Richard have been on the first all-star team eight times.

IT BEATS ME

By Jim Tang

There is considerable irony in the fact that there are signs that people in the regimented areas of the world are getting pretty fed up with it while we in the world where freedom has been a cherished possession are being forced into regimentation and even, in some instances, practically demanding it.

This is not the place for politics, and politics is not what is to be discussed. It is the regimentation being imposed on our very young by the constantly spreading juvenile sports programs.

They are a phenomenon of our time, a so-called "modern" world which far too often forgets, or refuses to acknowledge, that there is much of the past which could have been advantageously retained. One of those things is that little boys are little boys and should never be hurried out of the finest hours of their lives.

That was certainly never the intention when well-meaning citizens first got together to organize recreation for the small fry who were left with few places to play because of the increasing urbanization of our population. It is not the intention even now, but juvenile sports have been to some extent invaded by the dogooders and the caustics and the original concept seems, quite often, to have been misplaced.

Organized juvenile sport has become, and again too often, just a convenient stepping-stone for some to attain community recognition. It has, through these types, become so associated with the fight against juvenile delinquency that one could easily believe that if it wasn't for these programs that all our youngsters would grow up to be felons. For others it is an almost holy crusade. And these in their blindness are no more helpful than the status-seekers.

Not nearly all—surely a minority—of those connected with most programs are in either class. But in these classes are the more aggressive types and aggressive minorities often rule. Or spoil.

Good, clean recreation, particularly of the competitive type, is one of the best methods there is—outside the ones that should be used in the home—of keeping most boys out of serious trouble but the ever-increasing regimentation imposed by adults will inevitably beat down its possibilities. It's time to take stock. More and more people are wondering whether or not the good equals the harm being done.

One of these is Vince Leah, veteran Winnipeg columnist who has a lengthy record of active participation in juvenile recreation. Read what he says, and think.

"I suppose it's almost sacrilegious for me to state my proposal during the Stanley Cup playdowns but I want to get it off my chest while people are still thinking about hockey. My proposal is to abolish minor league. I mean particularly the really minor league hockey—the teams that adults run for kids from eight to maybe fifteen.

"I don't know exactly why, but every time grown men get seriously interested in a kid's sport and try to promote it and improve it they end up teaching the youngsters adult sins and adult anxieties of the kind that make ulcers. This happened to a scandalous degree in the United States with Little League baseball and it perverts the spirit of schoolboy football in a great many Canadian and American communities. Now, I'm afraid, the infection has reached kid hockey in many Canadian towns.

"... Space age or not, a boy's idea of fun is still doing what comes naturally. The most neglected expression on the playgrounds today is 'let's choose our sides.' Strict supervision or regimentation during leisure hours is an infringement on a boy's God-given right to explore the pleasures of being young.

"You cannot legislate fun. Parental duty ends with the provision of adequate recreational facilities. Any form of supervision should be done discreetly from the outer rim of the circle of youth, stepping forth to offer guidance only on direct invitation.

"No boy should be told he is not good enough to play 'regular.' You never see any substitutes sitting on the sidelines when boys gather to play by themselves. Winning becomes secondary because the gang is having too much fun to keep score. The game is over when the sun goes down, or when the kid who owns the ball or puck is called home for supper.

"Nobody goes home tear-stained in defeat, admonished by a coach or parent for making an error or letting in a soft goal at the last moment. They go home tired and contented with a date to continue the game tomorrow.

"Children should not play games they are incapable of organizing or legislating themselves. I have seen parents of Little Leaguers embroiled in fist fights and vicious name-calling in the stands while their sons tried to control their emotions out on the diamond.

"I have been on the receiving end of tirades from parents who wanted to know why their boy's name wasn't in the paper for getting two or three singles. They don't really care about the boy. They want something to brag about at the office. I'd prefer to brag that my boy had been out skating all day and came home, tired, rosy-cheeked and hungry, ready to accept regimentation at home, and at school. They'll graduate all too quickly into the all-important game of life. Nobody should be relegated to the end of the bench at 12. They should post a sign on all playgrounds: 'Parents admitted by invitation only.' AMEN.

Hull Hurt

DETROIT (AP) — Chicago Black Hawk hockey star Bobby Hull remained in satisfactory condition in hospital here Thursday night.

Hull suffered minor hand injuries early Wednesday when his car skidded on wet pavement and struck the rear of a semi-trailer truck. Hospital authorities said he is being held for observation.

Battle Mars Close Game

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP) — Two old lacrosse rivals battled into overtime Thursday night before New Westminster defeated Vancouver, 20-14, in an Inter-City Lacrosse League game that erupted with a donnybrook.

The fight broke out with only 33 seconds remaining on the clock in overtime. Vancouver's John Smurkin jumped on New Westminster goalie Les Norman. Several other players entered the fray and six 10-minute misconduct penalties were handed out before order was restored.

Among the penalties handed out were match penalties to Norman and Bill Chisholm of Vancouver.

Jack Bilonda and Cliff Sepka each scored four goals for New Westminster. Bill Wilson and Bill Cookley each got three. Others came from Shuteleworth, Oddy, Saunders, and others.

Thursday night, ending the Dodgers' four-game winning streak. Backed by the seventh inning uprising and an 11-hit attack, former Dodger Dick Farrell went the distance for the Colts, checking Los Angeles out in nine hits for his third victory without a loss.

In the only other National League game played Philadelphia Phillies defeated Cincinnati Reds 3-1. San Francisco at Chicago and Pittsburgh at Milwaukee were postponed because of rain.

In the American League, Kansas City jolted Detroit Tigers 10-3 on rookie Tom Reynolds' three-run homer in the first inning. Cleveland Indians walked Minnesota Twins 8-4. The only other scheduled game, Chicago at New York, was postponed because of rain.

At Houston, a gamble by

White to swing for Walt Bond, who had three hits including a two-run homer in the first.

But White singled past third to drive in the tie-breaking run, and on the throw to the plate the other runners moved up. Bob Aspromonte was given an intentional walk to load the bases, and now Craft let Staub, another lefty, hit for himself.

Staub laced a three-run double down the right field line. At Cincinnati, the Phillies scored two quick runs in the first inning then hung on for the victory.

Rookie Richie Allen drove in his 12th run of the season with a double after Tony Taylor led off with a single and John Callison walked. Callison scored when Joe Nuxhall hit Tony Gonzalez with a pitched ball in a bases-loaded situation.

At Kansas City, Jim Gentile and Rocky Calvito also hit home runs for the Athletics as Orlando Pena picked up his second victory.

Payday, of Sorts For Sonny Liston

CHESTER, Pa. (UPI) — Although he has received "quarter" yet from his heavyweight championship fight with Cassius Clay, Sonny Liston expects to be $180,000 richer by the weekend.

Jack Nilon, Liston's adviser, announced last night that the ex-champion should receive the money as part of a payment owed Inter-Continental Promotions, Inc., by Bill MacDonald of Miami, who helped stage the fight. MacDonald owes $400,000 by part of the title fight guarantee.

"This indebtedness arose because of levies filed by the internal revenue service, which prohibited further payment by MacDonald to Inter-Continental," Nilon said.

"These levies were recently released by the government and the way now is cleared for MacDonald to make payment. When the sum of $400,000 is paid by MacDonald, Liston will receive $180,000 immediately.

When asked about Liston's share of other receipts from the February fight, Nilon said, "of the sums received to date, Liston's share amounts to $731,000. However, the taxes and liens filed against Liston by the internal revenue service and by his former manager, George Katz, total $763,000, or approximately $32,000 more than Liston is entitled to."

For Willie Park Driver

Inter-Club Event Ready

Sixth annual competition for the Willie Park driver, emblematic of the inter-club golf championship of the area, will start on Wednesday, May 20.

It was decided last night at a meeting of the District Golf Committee.

The defending-champion Upland Golf Club will host Victoria Golf Club in one of the two opening matches while Royal Colwood Golf and Country Club plays at Gorge Vale.

Play will continue through the five succeeding Wednesdays. On May 27 it's Uplands at Colwood and Gorge Vale at Victoria, on June 3 it's Victoria at Colwood and Uplands at Gorge Vale, on June 10 it's Uplands at Victoria and Gorge Vale at Colwood.

On June 17 it's Victoria at Gorge Vale and Colwood at Uplands and on June 24 it's Colwood at Victoria and Gorge Vale at Uplands.

Banquet and prize presentation will be held on Friday, June 26, unless a tie forces a playoff. In that event, the wind-up will be one week later.

OTHER DATES Other tournament dates were established at the meeting.

The Centennial Foursomes will be played on May 24 at Uplands with May 18 as the entry deadline. An added feature this year is the Howard Wilson Trophy, donated by the

CITY EVENTS Gorge Vale will host the annual city junior championship, 36 holes of medal play, on Sunday, May 31. The city amateur will be at Uplands, with 36 holes on Sunday, June 7, and the final 18 holes on Sunday, June 14. Entry deadline is on June 1.

It was also decided that Bill Wakeham and Laurie Carroll, finalists in the Times Island match-play championship, would tee off at 9:45 a.m. and 1:45 p.m. in Sunday's 36-hole decider at Gorge Vale. George Graham and Warren Cameron, handicapped finalists, will tee off at 9:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m.

Official openings of three with an unnamed civic official present.

Bullfighting Pays But Pace Rugged

TORONTO (CP) — Athletes who think performing mainly to money would do well to take up the art of bullfighting — if they are willing to take the chance of getting gored or killed.

That's the view of Carlos Ariza of Mexico, one of the world's top bullfighters until he retired 10 years ago. Ariza said in an interview here, Monday he made nearly $2,000,000 during his career.

Asked about the pay for bullfighters, he said: "It's a lot better than your professional athletes get for football, hockey or soccer but the chances of getting killed are greater."

Ariza said he received $10,000 for each performance in Mexico and as much as $25,000 for a performance in Spain.

"Players are striking out more than ever before," says Lopez, "and it's largely because of their lust for home runs. The combination of cheap home runs and alarming total of strikeouts is hurting the game."

A trend to parks with short fences and a penchant for light bats are the main causes for the rise in cheap home runs and strikeouts, Lopez maintains.

"I understand the minimum foul lines at new parks cannot measure less than 325 feet. They should make the minimum at least 350 feet. New ball parks should be designed to keep the ball in play, rather than out of play. Let's give the outfielders a chance to make a good catch once in a while."

"The most exciting play in baseball, in my opinion, is the three-base hit. That's when everybody is moving. But you don't see many triples hit these days. The parks are just too confined."

"I'm not opposed to the home run when hit by a legitimate home-run hitter. But when little guys weighing 150 pounds began knocking them over the fences with regularity, something should be done about it. The tendency today is either home run or strikeout."

Lopez thinks players should return to the use of heavier bats, a belief Dressen voiced earlier this spring.

"The average bat today weighs 32 ounces," said Lopez. "Some guys are even swinging 29-ounce bats. In my day, players used bats ranging from 35 to 45 ounces."

Dressen was even more outspoken.

"Make 'em use heavier bats, like the old-timers did," he said. "I'll guarantee we'll see more 300 hitters. The trouble with the hitters today is they would rather hit one out of the park than go four-for-four."

"I tell my guys: 'Forget about home runs. Get yourselves heavier bats and choke up on 'em. Maybe you'll hit 10 home runs instead of 20, but you'll get more doubles and singles and you'll strike out 50 times instead of 100. You'll also add 50 points to your batting average.'"

Hill Rise 6-5 Favorite In 12-Horse Derby Field

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Hill Rise officially topped down the gamut Thursday and dazed was made the 6-5 choice for Saturday's 1 1/4-mile race at Churchill Downs before some of the country's finest three-year-old thoroughbreds to beat him in the 90th running of the Kentucky Derby.

As the names of the 12 horses, survivors of an original list of 138 nominees, were dropped into the entry box, Hill Rise was made the 6-5 choice for Saturday's 1 1/4-mile race at Churchill Downs before some of the country's finest three-year-old thoroughbreds to beat him in the 90th running of the Kentucky Derby.

If all 12 are in line for the start at 2:30 p.m., PDT, the gross value of America's most glamorous horse race will be $156,800 with $114,300 and a handful of red roses going to the winner.

The winning owner also will have a $5,000 gold cup to display.

Hill Rise, a rangy California-owned son of Hillary from George A. Pope, Jr.'s El Paso Ranch, finished his Derby preparations with an eye-catching performance in last Tuesday's Derby Trial. It was his eighth straight victory after finishing third in his first two races as a two-year-old.

DOUBLE WINNER
The favorite will be ridden by Willie Shoemaker, no stranger to the Kentucky Derby. He won with Swaps in 1955 and with Tomy Lee in 1959.

Although Hill Rise dominated the off-time heated discussions, there were many who said his colors would be lowered by Northern Dancer, a mite of a colt bred in Canada and owned by E. P. Taylor of Toronto. No Canadian-bred horse ever won the Derby.

CAME THIRD
Victoria Park, Taylor's horse in the 1960 Derby, finished third. Hartack, boasting the enviable record of three derby victories in five starts will be aboard Northern Dancer in what could shape up as a duel between two of the country's foremost riders.

Northern Dancer, winner of 12 races in 15 starts and never out of the money, was made the 5-2 second choice. He gained his biggest reputation in Florida with victories in the Flamingo and Florida Derby.

THE REST

Of the 10 others, in line of preference in the track handicapper's pre-race betting line are Paul Mellon's Quadrangle; Rex Ellsworth's awkward but dangerous The Scoundrel; Louis E. Wolfson's stout-hearted but small Roman Brother; Roy Sturgis' consistent Mr. Brink; and a half dozen lightly regarded runners.

The six are Cecil Carmine's Dandy K.; Wil Rad, owned by Wilbur Clark and William Radovich; Earle Davis's Extra Sweet; Mrs. Magruder Deni's Mr. Moonlight; H. G. Bockman's Ishkondah and Emil Dust's Royal Shuck.

In the draw for post positions, Mr. Brink obtained the rail and Hill Rise near the outside in post No. 11. Happiest of all was trainer Horatio Luro as he picked No. 7 for Northern Dancer after the colt had worked five-eighths of a mile in 1:02 and went six furlongs in 1:14.

WILT CHAMBERLAIN

Wilt Pick Of Writers

BOSTON (AP)—Wilt Chamberlain of the San Francisco Warriors has been chosen the most valuable player in the National Basketball Association by the United States Basketball Writers' Association.

Oscar Robertson of the Cincinnati Royals was runner-up in voting by members of the 27-man committee.

Chamberlain was the first choice of 14 voters and received a total of 253 points. Robertson received nine first place votes and a 225-vote total.

Hockey Prospects 'Hopeless'

OTTAWA (CP)—It is rather hopeless to expect Canada to regain its international hockey supremacy until the "archaic rules" governing eligibility are changed, President Clarence Campbell of the National Hockey League said Thursday.

Amateur teams in Canada can't match the state-sponsored teams in Europe, he said. Until the rules were revised to remove amateur status from state players the international scene would continue to be dominated by them.

Mr. Campbell also held out little hope for such a rule change, "as long as hockey involves national pride and prestige."

Speaking to the men's Canadian Club of Ottawa, the NHL President recalled the first time the Olympics added hockey to the winter program.

It was 1920 and that year Winnipeg Falcons scored hundreds of goals against foreign opponents.

He said the NHL itself is in the strongest position in its history.

1060 YATES — The Address of Automotive Leadership in Victoria

OUTDOORS with Alec Merriman

The 1964 edition of The Daily Colonist King Fisherman contest starts today and a five-pound salmon or a one-pound trout or bass could be enough to win you the grand hidden-weight prize of a trip for two to New Zealand by Canadian Pacific Airlines.

That is the big hidden weight prize, but there are scores of other hidden weight and fishing trophy prizes including 25 buttons each month for each of the three saltwater categories... coho, spring and tyee salmon... and 15 buttons each month for the 15 freshwater categories... lake trout, river trout and bass.

From today on you start fishing for buttons and hidden weight prizes. Each fish means another chance to win the big merchandise prizes.

Here are some tips to help you get an early start in the contest.

Most likely spot to hit a button-winning spring salmon is Oak Bay where 14 to 24-poublers are coming from the Gap, but fish deep... wire line and planer and super or large Strip-Tearer. There are plenty of blues off Trial Island, but these are not yet big enough to enter in the contest.

The odd spring is being taken off Otter Point, Sooke, Becher and Pedder Bay but they are few and far between. Frank Frost was lucky with a 20-pounder from Otter Point. Killer whales hit Saanich Inlet again Monday, but the Inlet should be producing again by Monday, but this isn't a hot time for Saanich Inlet.

Bill Walton got a 24.5-pounder off Bamberton Friday on small strip to take VSLAA top fish for the month and the odd big one came from Tod Inlet and Chesterfield Rock. There are still a few blues around, especially in the centre of the Inlet off Mill Bay, but few have been fishing for them.

Claytons and off Lantzville has been pretty hot for blues when the winds are right. Crofton and Maple Bay are giving up a few blues. Some blues have been caught off Campbell Bay and north in the Rock Bay area is reported hot for blues.

St. Mary Lake on Salt Spring and Prospect and Beaver-Elk Lake are all good bets to catch a bass button winner, particularly for those who like to fish with worms. Prospect and Elk Lakes are good bets for trout of the one-pound or better weight-in size. Shawigan has been giving up some good trout fishing.

But if you are looking for a lake trout button try Cowichan Lake at the lower end, about 300 or 400 yards for shore with a planer and small spoon or Strip-Tearer. Smaller trout are being taken on fly in the Marble Bay area.

Sprout Lake is another good bet for big trout.

For numbers of lake trout to make lots of hidden weight entries try Battle-Upper Campbell Lake near the mouth of the Elk River where Jim Boulding reports they are now getting limit catches on both fly and troll and worm in the middle of the lake.

Weeks, Dougan, Quamichan and Somenos have all been providing good fishing.

For big fish to win river trout buttons try the Chehalis below Copper Canyon, the Englishman, Big Qualicum and the Gold where the summer steelhead run is starting.

Cowichan River is now hot for fly fishermen above and below Skutz Falls and that is a good button-winner bet for those who want to get in on the five river trout buttons which will be reserved each month for other than steelhead and rainbows.

Geoff Kellet who used a Pass Lake fly above Skutz Sunday limited easily and said it was possible to select your fish and then catch it. A muddler fly has also been productive. Paste has been working well higher up the river in the government-owned area below the old shingle mill.

REMEMBER... YOUR FISHING LICENCE EXPIRED YESTERDAY... PICK UP A NEW LICENCE BEFORE GOING FISHING THIS WEEKEND.

Ford Fires Hot 67 For Las Vegas Lead

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Rapid-firing Doug Ford shot a five-under par 67 to edge favored Jack Nicklaus by one stroke in the first round Thursday of the $65,000 Tournament of Champions.

The 41-year-old Ford played the par 36-36-72 Desert Inn Country Club course in 34-33, carving out five birdies to take the lead.

Nicklaus, the defending champion, toured the course in 34-34-68, while Arnold Palmer had his ups and downs, including a two under par 3 on the fifth hole and a two over par 6 to finish out on the 18th for a 72.

British Open champion Bob Charles from New Zealand, who was paired with Nicklaus, and Juan Rodriguez of Puerto Rico each had 34-35-69.

Tied at 70 were Phil Rodgers, Al Geilberger and Tommy Jacobs.

National Open champion Julius Boros was in the group with Palmer at 72 along with a former winner of this event, Art Wall Jr., and four others, including George Knudson of Winnipeg and Toronto, who shot a 34-38.

Nicklaus, with his vaulted long game, birdied three of the four par-five holes and got another birdie 2 when he holed a 15-foot putt on the fourth hole. Gary Player of South Africa, who lost considerable weight with a tonsillitis condition several weeks ago, shot a 36-35-71.

Defending Champion Out to Keep Golf Title

Plane Known As YF 12A

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The All, the U.S. mystery plane developed over the past five years and disclosed by President Johnson last Feb. 29, now has a new name—"YF 12A."

The U.S. defence department calls the plane an "interceptor aircraft." It was developed originally as a high-flying successor to the U2 spy plane and is capable of flying "in excess" of 2,000 miles per hour. It is scheduled to attempt a new world speed record, but no date has been set.

Instant Termites Just Eat Floor

VERNON (CP)—An insidious type of termite has shown up in the Okanagan Valley.

S. Jack Arrand, assistant provincial entomologist, says the pests seal themselves in the wood and leave no tell-tale signs of their boring.

"The first thing you know about their presence is when you fall through the floor," he said.

These subterranean horers are a new type to the area, where formerly the dampwood species was most common.

Mr. Arrand blamed the increasing incidence on poor construction methods, such as leaving untreated wooden forms deep in the ground after house construction.

No Evidence Found Of Any Space Ships

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. Air Force has investigated more than 8,000 reported unidentified flying objects in 16 years "and has yet to discover any evidence that they represent a threat" to U.S. security.

It also said Thursday that investigations of such sightings back to 1947 have failed to turn up any evidence that the objects

Quake Did Put Hole In Radar

TOKYO (AP)—Gen. John K. Gerhart, commander in chief of the North American Defense Command, said yesterday a power failure during the Alaska earthquake last month knocked a seven-minute hole in North America's radar warning system against surprise attack.

Gerhart's disclosure to reporters contradicted a U.S. defense department announcement shortly after the quake that the warning system had continued to function normally.

Gerhart said generators at the warning installation at Clear, Alaska, broke down but power was swiftly restored.

Practical Nurse Clue Fizzles In Chicago Baby Kidnapping

CHICAGO (AP)—Police and FBI agents doggedly pressed a search Thursday for a baby kidnapped from a hospital, although clue after clue proved futile.

The latest lead to fizzle was that concerning a practical nurse who once worked at Michael Reese Hospital. Two witnesses, however, said Wednesday that she was not the woman dressed as a nurse who last Monday took the baby boy from his mother at the hospital.

Police first became interested in the unnamed practical nurse when they learned that she had been placed on probation in 1962 for taking a five-year-old girl from a carnival.

The woman was released after she was viewed by Leo Kelsey, a cab driver who drove the kidnapper from Michael Reese Hospital to a nearby south-side neighborhood and by Mrs. Joyce S. Doane, 24, who shared a room at the hospital.

TOOK INFANT — The woman had told the mother, Mrs. Chester Fronczak, 28, she wanted to return the infant, Paul Joseph, who was born last Sunday, to the nursery.

Boys Help Police

Mermaid Sawn in Stages

COPENHAGEN (Reuters)—Two 14-year-old boys have upset Copenhagen police theories on the mystery of the missing head of the Little Mermaid statue, a Danish landmark.

The boys came forward yesterday and said they saw a cut and metal filings on the statue last Friday. They tried to shake the head but it would not move, they said.

British to See Cutting Horses

VANCOUVER (CP)—The leader of a group of six Canadian riders who will exhibit Canada's top six cutting horses during a three-month tour of England, left here Tuesday.

The six cutting horses—named for their ability to cut a steer from a herd without use of the reins by the rider—left here by rail and air Monday to start a tour proposed by the Duke of Edinburgh.

Yesterday, one of Sweden's biggest metal concerns offered free "Beauty treatment" for a new head, which is being made at a foundry here. They said they would treat it so that it would develop the same shade as the body.

Earlier yesterday, a woman medium claimed the head was at the bottom of Copenhagen harbor. She said her pendulum showed three hatches aged between 25 and 30 cut it off and threw it into the water "to get rid of tourists."

Wiser's whiskies are older in virtually all cases!

Older to Wiser's means aged in wood, not merely the date stamp on the bottle. It means "married in wood" which is a process of returning the spirits to wood after final blending—for a further period of quiet aging. It means "lighter", smoother flavour acquired naturally—through patient aging. For the best whiskies, drink one that's older and Wiser's.

EXAMPLE: Wiser's 101 in an attractive square bottle handy for packing and storing... and 6 years old.

Wiser's well-aged whiskies: Wiser's De Luxe, 10 years old; Wiser's 101, 6 years old; Wiser's Special Blend, 4 years old.

More Habitual-Criminal Charges Urged

Swift action must be taken to ensure that mainland criminals don't come to regard Victoria as a "playland," city police commission decided yesterday.

"It's significant," Police Chief J. F. Gregory told the commission, "that we are now running into a considerable number of Vancouver criminals over here."

The commission endorsed Chief Gregory's contention that the influx could be stopped by laying charges under the section of the Criminal Code of Canada which provides stiff sentences for habitual criminals.

The chief will discuss the legal aspects of the proposal shortly with prosecutor Peter Birkett.

Law enforcement agencies on the Lower Mainland believe it is fast that more charges are being laid under the habitual criminals section which is driving wrong-doers to seek greener pastures.

"There is need for similar action on our part to make these criminals realize that Victoria is no playground," the police chief said.

Chief Gregory added that exchange of information between local police forces and those on the mainland is assisting all forces in keeping an accurate check on movements of the criminal population.

The commission earlier gave final approval to the 1964 police department budget totalling $239,886. This is up $47,846 over 1963 but it includes provision for five extra policemen and creation of a new inspector.

The chief reported that the extra inspector will allow a commissioned officer to be on duty at all times.

In the final cutting of the police budget at a private meeting, chairman Mayor R. B. Wilson later told reporters, items totalling some $23,000 were removed.

Wage increases — including those to civilian staff members — will cost an extra $30,906 this year. Five new constables and the inspector will account for a further $12,776.

The increase in strength will bring the department to 108 members.

The commission instructed that a letter of explanation be sent to Victoria Labor Council which had protested the use of unpaid auxiliary policemen on patrol duty.

Chief Gregory reported that a provincial order-in-council issued in February, 1963, established that auxiliary police may volunteer for in-service training including accompanying regular police patrols.

This has been done in the city at the request of the auxiliary police and at all times they are accompanied by regular patrolmen, the chief said.

Salvation Army

Annual Drive Begins

By KEN JOHNSON

The Salvation Army's annual fund drive swings into action today with nearly 600 workers beginning an intense month-long canvass throughout Greater Victoria.

There will be door-to-door collections, a special names canvass, an appeal to local businesses and industrialists, with special teams asking for donations from federal and provincial government services, hotels and clubs, armed services and at the dockyards in a thorough cross-section of Victoria.

$25,000 GOAL

This year's objective: $25,000. General chairman this year is R. R. Wilde, while campaign director is Brig. R. Frewing.

There will be about 40 team captains handling groups of 10 or more, working on a carefully-planned schedule for the campaign.

HELP PROJECTS

As in previous years, the money raised will go to help projects like the Harbor Light Centre, the Matson Lodge as well as general social work, plus special emergency funds such as the Port Alberni flood disaster fund.

Last year 76 men were admitted to the Harbor Light Centre, with an average stay of 64 days. Officers held 1,122 personal interviews and conducted 782 meetings and Bible classes.

$13,627 WELFARE

Free or low cost meals totalled 21,472, along with free or low cost beds for 4,627. Cash value of welfare supplied during the year was $13,627.80.

Matson Lodge provided shelter and care for 194 elderly men and women during last year. The average age of present residents is 82.

OTHER SERVICES

Other special services which the Salvation Army hopes to pay for with campaign funds are correctional services, the missing persons bureau and the anti-suicide bureau.

Money will also go towards the maintenance of such institutions as the Mary Moore Home and Hospital at Cobble Hill, which provides care for the elderly; Sunset Lodge old folks' shelter, and the Maywood Home and Grace Hospital, which provide confidential refuge for unmarried mothers.

30 Applications For Inspectorship

Nearly 30 applications, some from as far north as Dawson Creek and Fort St. John, have been received for the position of building inspector for Oak Bay, says municipal engineer Geoffrey White. Closing date for applications is May 13.

Mishap with Cleaner Points Up Campaign

TENNIS SLAGBOOM

Two Saanich children had a brush with death yesterday—just three days before observance of Child Safety Day designated by the provincial cabinet.

The children, Tracy Jarvinen, 2, and her 11-month-old sister Kelly, of 363 Ker, were treated and released from hospital after eating from a can of fly-based drain cleaner.

They were taken by Saanich fire department ambulance to Royal Jubilee Hospital shortly after 1 p.m., where they were treated for minor throat and mouth burns.

The government proclaimed Sunday as Child Safety Day in B.C. in conjunction with the B.C. Safety Council's campaign to reduce the number of accidents to children in the province.

PARENTAL EXAMPLE

The council has asked aid in reducing the number of fatal accidents to children under 15 years — 129 in 1963 — and suggests parental good example as the best weapon.

Drowning, fire, traffic, falls and poisoning were listed as the main child-killers last year.

The council asked particular attention to safety by householders during spring cleaning, when household cleaning aids and pesticides are in evidence in many homes.

Mrs. Merle Jarvinen, mother of the children who had the narrow escape, wholeheartedly endorsed the safety campaign.

"The top shelf in the cupboard is empty and you can be sure that is where all that kind of stuff is going to be stored from now on," she said.

Bank Holdup Sentencing Due May 7

A Montreal gunman who participated in a Saanich bank holdup a week ago will be sentenced for his crime May 7.

Jean Chelmin Robitaille, 28, pleaded guilty to armed robbery earlier this week after being arrested in a Victoria hotel room.

He had more than $1,500 in his room.

He appeared in police court yesterday and was remanded to May 7 for sentence.

Robitaille admitted being one of four men who took $7,300 from the Saanich branch of the Bank of Montreal about 6 p.m.

Mrs. Jarvinen was in a bedroom folding diapers when Tracy came in, white about the mouth and looking ill. She ran into the kitchen and found the baby still playing with the cleaner can.

FEEDING BABY

"I think her sister had been feeding it to her," said Mrs. Jarvinen.

The mother ran next door and telephoned the family doctor, who in turn called Saanich fire department.

"We were lucky the children hadn't swallowed any of it," Mrs. Jarvinen said.

Old Labor Centre for Police

Victoria police department will establish temporary headquarters in the former labor council building on Pandora this fall while the police building on Flisgard is being renovated.

This was disclosed by Commissioner Gordon Carter at a meeting of the police commission with city council yesterday to approve the police department budget.

Mr. Carter said cells in the new provincial law courts will serve as a lock-up for city prisoners. The police department will have to provide jailers and matrons.

Reconstruction of the present police headquarters building is expected to start in September and will take about nine months to complete.

Average Boost: $11.60

By IAN STREET

Victoria taxpayers face a 2.9 mill increase in taxes for 1964.

For the average householder — with a $10,000 home — the increase will amount to $11.60 and thus is more than offset by the $15 increase in the homeowner's grant.

Windier Bright Cooler

April was a little cooler and windier than average, but the sunshine was only three hours short of normal.

Weather office said last night the average temperature for the month was 46.4 degrees, compared with a normal of 49.3.

Hours of sunshine totalled 207.2 hours, compared with a normal of 210.5 hours. Mean wind speed was 13.1 miles an hour, normal 11.5.

Precipitation was 1.19 inches, normal 1.21, including 1 inch of snow, normal 2. Maximum temperature, April 23, 57 degrees; minimum, 36, April 18 and 19.

Late Filers Beat Deadline

A well-dressed young man who jumped out of a blue sedan and sprinted across Government Street to the post office right on midnight was the last man to file his income tax on time in Victoria.

Thirty-five cars were counted during the last 10 minutes before midnight and in almost all of them the drivers were clutching that familiar brown envelope containing the tax forms.

Hooray! Hooray!

Varsity Exams Over Today

By JUDITH BAINES

About 2,000 sighs of relief will be heaved at 5 p.m. today.

The end of 2½ weeks of final examinations has finally arrived for University of Victoria students, most of whom had five three-hour exams.

About 180 members of the graduating class will know their results by May 21, in time for the convocation of the first University of Victoria graduates May 25.

Other students must endure a month of suspense before the Senate releases their marks at the end of May.

Students will forget courses and exams temporarily at least tonight at the Soph Dance in the curling rink.

The boost of 2.9 mills over the 1963 levy of 55 mills is approximately five per cent.

FAIR BUDGET

Mayor R. B. Wilson said yesterday he considered it "a very fair budget" which kept expenses down while keeping up maintenance of city services.

He noted that the rate of general taxation had actually dropped one-fifth of a mill from the 1962 figure in the city.

HOLD LINE

Victoria was the only local municipality to hold the line on taxes in 1963 and to achieve this it had to offset a 2.3 mill increase in school taxes.

This year school taxes in the city are up 8 of a mill—bringing the increase in education costs since 1962 to 3.1 mills.

A comparison with other municipalities showed that while Victoria taxes have increased by 2.9 mills since 1962 in Saanich the increase over the same period has been 6.55 mills; in Oak Bay it is 6 mills; and in Vancouver it is 7.7 mills.

Equivalents haven't yet set its 1964 tax rate but council was told there are indications that it too will exceed the city's increase since 1962.

NEW DRAIN

Among cuts made by aldermen yesterday was $30,000 for a new storm drain in the Causeway area, partly balanced by $5,000 added for a new seaplane dock in the Inner Harbor and an additional $15,000 for furnishing of the new city hall.

The police department budget totalling $239,886 was passed without cuts by aldermen after a meeting with the police commission yesterday afternoon.

FIRST READING

City council will meet at 2 p.m. Monday to give first reading to the bylaw setting the 1964 mill rate and again on Wednesday to give it final approval.

Some Children Jumping Gun

A number of anxious children apparently jumped the gun last night on canvassing for the senior citizens activity centre in Centennial Square.

The one-day drive to help raise $50,000 still needed by the senior citizens for the activity centre will be held from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. Saturday.

IDENTIFICATION CARDS

An army of 1,300 children will blanket Greater Victoria, and officials last night started handing out identification cards and labelled collection tins.

Several people reported last night, however, that they were approached by children with no identification, who said they were collecting for the senior citizens' project.

"It is possible some of the kids may have jumped the gun," a spokesman for the fund group said yesterday. "They were supposed to wait until Saturday."

Organizers of the drive say they have enough volunteer canvassers, but could use two more adult team captains. Any-one wishing to help is asked to phone EV 6-6631.

ONE-THIRD THE COST

Senior citizens are hoping to raise $65,000, one third of the cost of the centre, the other two-thirds to be donated by the provincial government and the city of Victoria. Headquarters for the drive will be the old Woodward's store on Douglas Street.

University of Victoria

Vancouver Professor Arts, Science Dean

Dr. W. A. Bryce of Vancouver yesterday was named Dean of Arts and Science and professor of chemistry at the University of Victoria.

"The appointment of a scientist of the calibre of Dr. Bryce will directly advance the development of balanced programs in both the sciences and arts," acting president Dr. W. H. Hickman said yesterday after the announcement by the board of governors.

ACTING CHAIRMAN

The new dean, who will assume office Sept. 1, is professor and acting chairman of the department of chemistry at UBC.

He was born in Saskatchewan and graduated from the University of Saskatchewan in 1943, going on to his M.A. the following year. He took his Ph.D. at McGill in 1947 and was given a doctorate at Oxford in 1949.

SIMILAR POST

Dr. Bryce began teaching at the University of Saskatchewan as a demonstrator in chemistry and later held a similar post at McGill.

For a short period he was a biochemist with the division of applied biology at the National Research Laboratories in Ottawa.

In 1949 he was appointed assistant professor of chemistry at UBC and was promoted to associate professor and, in 1961, to professor.

A physical chemist, the doctor has published numerous papers on work largely concerned with gas phase kinetics and the study by mass spectroscopy of short-lived intermediates in chemical reactions, such as free radicals. In six of these papers he collaborated with Dr. Stephen Ryce, department of chemistry, University of Victoria.

In 1958 he was awarded a Nuffield fellowship which he used to take advanced graduate work at Cambridge.

The doctor has held various offices in the Chemical Institute of Canada including that of director.

Saturday, May 2 will be a busy day in St. George's new Parish Hall. Occasion is the annual Cadboro Bay Flower show, when there will be large displays of tulips, floral arrangements, sale of garden plants and named chrysanthemums, dis-

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: You wrote, and wisely, that smoking is neither sophisticated nor stylish. You said it can shorten lives, and that it is an expensive and a dirty habit. Why, then, do so many people do it?

The answer is simple. A child can suck his thumb and drag around an old blanket. An adult who sucked his thumb and dragged around an old blanket would be led off by a man in a white coat.

So the adult does what is socially acceptable. He sticks a cigarette, or a cigar or a pipe in his mouth. These are pacifiers for adults. These babies don't mind fouling the air of your living room, or an office shared by non-smokers. They care not if they burn holes in their clothing or set fire to their mattress and burn up the whole family. They are large infants who haven't grown up.

Do you have the courage to print this? I'll wait and see. — UN-ENSLAVED.

Dear Un-Enslaved: Your theory is not new and I don't agree that it takes any special courage to print it.

Of course the "Enslaved" will scream like eagles and shout "Freudian garbage" when they see this but the experts (many of them at any rate) say you are right.

Dear Ann Landers: When you spoke here at the auditorium you said the basis for a successful marriage is communication. I was happy my husband was there to hear you because I've been trying to get that idea across for years but I never knew how.

I decided last night to write down everything he said from the minute he came home. Here is the full report:

6:10—"Any mail?"

6:25—"Tell the kids to get that darned dog to stop barking."

6:35—"Don't you know how to fix anything but meat loaf?"

6:50—"Pass the sugar."

7:10—"How come the news paper is wet?"

7:45—"Change the channel. This is lousy."

10:30—"Walk the hound. I'm going to bed."

"Now, Ann Landers, I ask you, is THIS communication? Thanks for your help. — BILLINGS, MONTANA.

Dear Billings: It's a start. At least the guy has vocal chords. You said nothing, however, about your responses to Blabber Mouth.

Did you try to engage him in conversation? This is where many wives fail. They are uninformed and dull. Their idea of conversation is a Gestapo report on the kids or a rehash of the palaver heard across the back fence. Most husbands couldn't care less, so they rest behind the newspaper or fall asleep in front of the boob tube.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 17-year-old girl who is crazy about a fellow I will call Todd. He takes me out about once every other week. I always get dressed up nice hoping we will go to a movie or a party, but it's always the same routine. He heads for the woods and we make out.

Yes, that would be great. Then he shows up alone. I'm afraid Todd wants me for only one thing. I care a great deal about him so please tell me how to get him to treat me like an all-around girl. — THE DOG.

Dear Dog: Once a girl is typecast it's tough to win another role. Tell Todd not to call anymore unless he plans to take you somewhere besides the woods. If he never calls again take my word for it, Honey, you're lucky to be rid of him before you wind up in real trouble.

Navy Bells For Sale

Step forward— all former Royal Navy men who served with Artificers, Saints, Swiftsure and Eddystone.

These are four of the 200 of Her Majesty's ships having their old unwanted bells sold off by the Admiralty.

While anyone can apply to the Director of Stores (BD) Empress State Buildings, London S.W.6, preference will be given to former RN men, and those who served on the ships concerned.

Some of the bells weigh 150 pounds with 18-inch diameters, but the Royal Fleet Auxiliary ship Eddystone's bell weighs only four pounds. They are all in various states of repair, and a bullet hole in one tells of an interesting career.

Mr. and Mrs. W. David Pollock, 1261 Burnside Road West, announce the forthcoming marriage of their younger daughter, Maureen Elizabeth, to Mr. Robert Charles Wootton, Kemano, B.C., elder son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy H. Wootton, 625 Brookleigh Road. The wedding will take place June 6 at 8 p.m. in First United Church with Rev. R. J. D. Morris officiating. — (Kandid Kamera Studio)

Canadian Heroes In Plays

MONTREAL (CP) — Writer Sybil Black of Montreal says every Canadian child should have a Canadian hero. Mrs. Black writes one-act plays for children to act and produce, based on the lives of famous Canadians. Her play RKO Koo-Sing, the Star Gasser, about geographer David Thompson, is being rehearsed by children in two Montreal schools.

BIG CARS AT WHOLESALE TELMAC NO MONEY DOWN

Mary Lou Sheline Weds Donald Bell

Pink daisies and stocks decorated the altar of St. Patrick's Church when Rev. Father M. J. McNamara heard marriage vows exchanged between Mary Lou Sheline and Mr. Donald F. Bell.

Parents of the principals are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Riddler, 432 Boleskine Road, and Mr. and Mrs. J. Stanley Bell, 238 Beechwood Avenue.

The dark-haired bride, given in marriage by her stepfather, wore a floor-length gown of ribbed silk taffeta. The empire-lined bodice was edged in Gulpure lace and styled with jewel neckline and lily point sleeves. The bell skirt flowed into a soft train from a self-fabric bow at waistline. Only jewelry was a strand of pearls, gift of the groom. A spray of tiny white flowers held her bouffant veil of illusion net. She carried a cascade bouquet of deep pink roses and stephanotis that concealed a ring belonging to her grandmother.

Identical gowns of turquoise whipped cream fabric were choice of matron of honor, Mrs. G. McLean, sister of the bride, bridesmatron, Mrs. S. Bell, sister-in-law of the groom, and bridesmaid, Miss Margaret Ann Sheline, another of the bride's sisters. They complemented their outfits with headpieces of self-fabric roses and illusion net on tone and carried bouquets of pink carnations.

Miss Debbie Dressel was flower girl for her aunt, in a white frock. She wore a circlet of white fabric roses in her hair and carried a miniature cascade bouquet of deep pink carnations.

Mr. Stan Bell, Jr., was best man for his brother and guests were ushered by Mr. Gerald McLean and Mr. Kenneth Stolz.

Mr. Winston Arledge proposed the toast to his niece at a reception which followed in Hollywood House. The bride's table was centred with a three-tier wedding cake, surrounded by deep pink roses and tulle. Cake was topped with a cluster of bells and lily of the valley that had been sent to the bride by her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Woodside of Calgary, Alta. The ornament had been used by the couple on their diamond wedding anniversary. Pink flowers and greenery decorated the guest tables.

Following a honeymoon motoring trip in the United States, the couple will make their home in Victoria.

For travelling, the bride chose a two-piece pink wool suit with floral hat in tone, and beige and brown accessories. Her corsage was a single gardenia.

Member Speaks

Captain David Groos, MP, was guest speaker when the Lady Laurier Club of Oak Bay met for a luncheon meeting at the Oak Bay Beach Hotel.

He stressed that reorganization of veterans' hospitals was motivated by the desire for complete care and professional service for patients, revamped to avoid duplication and waste of the tax dollar.

Capt. Groos serves on this project as a member of the Armed Forces Committee. In addition, he's a committee member for Penal Reform and told of a recent visit he'd made to the Canadian Penitentiary for Women.

Islamic Influence

Egyptian Art Discussed

Mr. Joseph Egoyan, artist and authority on early Egyptian art and treasures, addressed members of the Comitas Club at a recent meeting held at the Beach Drive home of Mrs. Percy Weston.

Mr. Egoyan traced the evolution of art from the early Egyptian period through the Greco-Roman era and commented on the Islamic and Moorish influence. He presented some very thought-provoking ideas about contemporary art, from which developed much discussion.

The guest speaker was introduced by Mrs. Walter Hughes and thanked by Mrs. Ivan Flett.

Following a recent business meeting, held at the Crestview home of Mrs. Gordon Hartley, Mrs. T. G. Dalzell reviewed one of Rodrik

Campbell's Vegetable Soup and Zippy Burgers

For an unusually nourishing lunch:

1. Campbell's Vegetable Soup — made with sixteen different vegetables. Processed a special Campbell way — to save flavour and valuable nutrients, as much as if you cooked them on your own stove.

2. Zippy Burgers — more flavour than ordinary hamburgers. More nourishment, too. And children love Zippies.

1 pound ground beef
1 tablespoon shortening
½ cup chopped onion
½ cup chopped celery
1 teaspoon salt
dash pepper
1 can (10 oz.) Campbell's Tomato Soup
6 hamburger buns, split and toasted.

In frying pan, brown meat in shortening. Reduce heat; add onion, celery, and seasonings. Cook until vegetables are tender. Add soup; simmer about 15 minutes stirring now and then. Serve on buns. 6 servings.

Yellow Roses In Bride's Bouquet

Eunice Hazel Nitzkirk became the bride of Robert Alexander Jaffray at a quiet family wedding in Shawnaigan Lake United Church. Rev. Lea Gillard performed the ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orville L. Nitzkirk and the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Jaffray, all of Shawnaigan Lake.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white, three-piece double-knit suit with pale blue accessories. Her only jewelry was a crystal necklace and matching earrings. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses and lily-of-the-valley.

Mrs. Brian Andrew, bride's only attendant, was in a deep pink three-piece double-knit suit with pink and white accessories. She wore a pearl necklace and matching earrings and carried a crescent bouquet of pink sweetheart roses and carnations.

Mr. Brian Andrew was best man.

For a brief honeymoon to the mainland the bride topped her wedding ensemble with a pale blue spring-weight mohair coat.

Mr. and Mrs. Jaffray are now making their home at Suite No. 3, 137 Clarence Street, Victoria.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Nichols, 361 Howard Avenue, Nanaimo, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on Thursday. Married in Edmonton, in 1914, they have resided in Nanaimo since 1946. They have one daughter, Mrs. John (Vera) Eley of Nanaimo, and two grandchildren. Mr. Nichols worked on the railways in England, continuing in the same profession when he came to Canada, up until his retirement. (Wilf Watson Photos)

Fugitive Descends—Outside

DETROIT — A guard fired a warning shot at prisoner Joseph van Dusen reached the barbed-wire top of a fence of the Detroit House of Correction.

"Stop shooting," the 19-year-old Detroit resident shouted. "I'm coming down."

The guard stopped. Van Dusen came down—on the outside of the fence. Police are still looking for him.

CANNES — Italian cinema queen Sophia Loren refused to play empress when she arrived here to open the Cannes film festival. The star of the film The Fall of the Roman Empire refused to be hauled to the festival hall in a horse-drawn Roman chariot awaiting her.

DALLAS, Tex. — Mrs. Marina Oswald has agreed to grant James Martin and John Thorne until May 15 to submit a sworn statement listing donations received following her husband's death last Nov. 24.

AGANA, Guam — California's flying housewife Joan Merriam, 27, who had postponed her flight from Guam to Wake Island five times, finally took off—but turned back an hour later when her plane developed mechanical difficulties.

MIAMI, Fla. — Altarecia Julia Trujillo Molina, mother of assassinated Dominican dictator Rafael Trujillo, died here at the age of 100.

AUCLAND — Prime Minister Keith Holyoak has announced New Zealand will make 20 members of the New Zealand police force available for service with the United Nations peace force on Cyprus.

DAYTON, Ohio — Former vice-president Richard Nixon rejected President Johnson's invitation to be briefed on classified material. He said he believed Johnson's invitation to brief all possible presidential candidates "is a bad precedent."

OTTAWA — Promotion of Cmdr. Donald Knox, 41, of Montreal has been promoted to the rank of captain and his appointment as director of intelligence at navy.

CONWAY, Ark. — Farmer J. D. Mode's calf is walking around on an artificial leg made of an ax handle, two dog collars, a piece of sponge and some suede leather. The calf was born with one of its legs missing at the first joint.

ATHENS — NATO Secretary General Dirk Stikker conferred with Greek leaders here on the need for Greek-Turkish cooperation, despite friction over Cyprus. Stikker flew in from Ankara where he met with Turkish Premier Ismet Inönü.

NEW YORK — Actor Lawrence Tierney, 44, who told court he had quit drinking, was given a one-year suspended sentence for assaulting taxi driver Jack Bass, 41.

MANCHESTER — Magistrate Brackenford Turner suggested that $17,164 in proceeds of a pornographic photograph racket broken up by police be donated to the city's art gallery.

BOCHUM, Germany — Herman Riche, the self-styled Nazi "Lord of Life and Death" of a Jewish ghetto in Poland was sentenced to 22 years of life imprisonment at hard labor for the murder of at least 22 persons.

NEW YORK — Robert Moses, 75, president of the New York World's Fair, was reported "exceptionally well" after prostate gland surgery.

NEW YORK — Roy Cohn's retrial on charges of perjury and obstruction of justice has been scheduled for June 9.

SOUTHAMPTON — Charles Crowley, his wife Dorothy, and their eight children sailed for Australia to escape the hazards of Britain's educational system. He said they could not "stand the thought" of another five years of the dreaded 11-plus examination, which often makes or breaks the educational future of girls and boys in Britain.

OTTAWA — Prime Minister Pearson and Health Minister Lamont both denied reports she had submitted her resignation.

LOS ANGELES — Michael Silverstein, 21, went to court to sue another man in connection with a traffic accident—and ended up with a best man for his wedding. Defendant Thomas Burdine, 42, agreed to serve as best man at Silverstein's wedding with 19-year-old Sylvia Hannan—despite the fact he lost the $100,000 claim "due" to the groom. The same judge presided.

TOKYO — Mrs. Takako Shimizu, 25, formerly Prime Minister's daughter, the youngest daughter of Emperor Hirohito and Empress Nagako, leaves for the United States today as the first member of the imperial family ever to live in a foreign country.

UNITED NATIONS — Adlai Stevenson has declined to run for the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senator from New York. He said he believed his "present responsibilities" as U.S. Ambassador to the UN should take precedence.

VANCOUVER — Henry McDonald, confronted with his criminal record, covering four pages, in court before being sentenced to 30 days for begging, said: "You might say I've had a little difficulty in my life-time."

'Coffin Will Kill Me'

MONTREAL (CP)—Montreal hearings of the Coffin inquiry ended Thursday with conflicting testimony by Marion Petrie, who lived with the Gaspé prospector for 17 years, and a policeman who questioned her in 1953.

Staff Sgt. Arthur Normandeau testified that Miss Petrie first refused to testify for fear that "Coffin will kill me if he knows that I say something."

DENIAL STATEMENT
"No, I never said anything like that and gave what I had to say willingly," Miss Petrie said in subsequent questioning. Both witnesses took the stand three times Thursday as commissioner Roger Broussard questioned them closely on their testimony.

LIE DETECTOR
Miss Petrie, who first testified at the inquiry Tuesday, took the stand again to say she underwent a lie detector test conducted by Sgt. Normandeau during her marathon questioning.

The policeman did not recall this.

Police Watch Liquor Stores

VANCOUVER (CP)—A police crackdown on juvenile drinking was announced Thursday.

Provincial government liquor stores are the main source of supply for juveniles, said Deputy Chief Gordon Ambrose, and these stores are now under police surveillance.

Garden Notes

Nurse New Lawn

By M. V. CHERNUT, FREE

I don't know of any experience in gardening quite so thrilling and exciting as catching that first glimpse of green on a newly seeded lawn. You come out of the house one morning, and there, on the black earth, is something rather like the very lightest of green, a suspicion of a hope, which hardens into delightful certainty as the days go by.

Such new lawns require very careful treatment the first year. No matter how carefully the ground was prepared, some weeds are bound to appear, and unless they are removed by hand in their seedling stage, these will be difficult to deal with later on. Chemical weedkillers are no help here, for these must never be used until the grass is well established and with its roots well down.

Hand weeding should start when the grass is about 1 1/2 inches high, and the soil should be just nicely moist—neither bone dry nor sloppy wet—when this operation is performed. On dry soil, your weeds will snap off just under the surface, leaving the root to sprout again. On wet soil, you'll find yourself pulling up clods of precious grass seedlings with every weed.

Use a little care in getting about on your new lawn. Probably the best method is to use wide boards you can kneel on, to distribute your weight and avoid bruising the grass. Weeding should be done systematically, marking off a yard-wide strip with a couple of garden lines or strings, and cleaning up all the weeds in one lane before moving on to the next.

You will probably encounter some bare patches as you weed. Treat these as you go, stirring the surface with a table fork, scattering a pinch of seed, and covering with a sifting of fine soil. When the whole job is done, run a light roller once over the whole lawn.

The first mowing is done when the grass reaches 2 1/2 inches in height, and only one inch of tip is removed, using a lawnmower which is very sharp, well lubricated and in first class condition. The side-wheel hand mower isn't the best implement in the world for this first cut, for if there is the slightest drag on the wheels, they'll gouge ugly ruts in the new grass. A self-propelled reel-type power mower is good, or an English hand mower of the Atco type, where the reel is driven by chains from a wide roller. A rotary power mower is permissible, but only if the blade is razor sharp at the time.

Many of our popular lawn seed mixtures contain a small proportion of coarse, strong-growing annual grasses which serve to protect the finer and slower varieties while they are getting established. If you examine your new lawn carefully, you will see the fine grass about an inch high while the coarser blades of the nurse grasses will be 2 1/2 inches. This is why the first mowing should take off no more than a one-inch tip—to reduce the shading effect of the nurse grasses while leaving the permanent blades untouched.

For the second mowing, about a week later, keep the mower adjusted high so that again only an inch of blade tips is removed. Thereafter, it may be treated as an established lawn, although it should never be cut closer than an inch from the ground during its first year. On both new and established lawns, I prefer to mow twice a week during the active growing season, allowing the fine mowings to remain where they fall.

No weedkillers should be used for at least a month after the second cut.

New Thinking Needed, Says JOHN CROSBY

Leisure Major Problem

LONDON—Kenneth Tynan, a drama critic who went straight and is now literary manager of England's National Theatre, has proposed the creation of a Ministry of Leisure with just as much scope and authority as a Ministry of Labor or War or any other government office.

Why not? Leisure is getting to be one of the great problems of our age.

"Our politicians," writes Tynan, "talk and purport as if the grand aim and purpose of political activity were to make us more productive, better housed, better taught, more prosperous, healthier, and better able to defend ourselves against enemies who might try to deprive us of the right to do all these things in our own way."

"All the parties promise us more leisure time and more money to spend on it, and none of them seems bothered by the other half of the equation—what to do with our wealth and leisure when we have them?"

only because northern industry is withering, but also because the highest concentration of cultural amenities is around London.

Esslin cited an English industrialist consultant engaged by an American company to select a site for a factory in England or Germany.

Construction cost would have been lower in England, but the American company preferred a German town because it possessed a theatre, an opera house, a civil orchestra, art cinemas and a lively night life.

These, the company felt, would provide powerful inducements to attract the top technicians and managerial talent that it needs.

But the opera house, theatre and/or orchestra didn't get to Germany town by accident or private enterprise. They are all subsidized by the German national government as are theatres, opera houses and all other forms of cultural activity all over Europe.

Tynan's National Theatre is subsidized by the government (though not nearly as heavily as bed like). As a consequence, Londoners may now enjoy a magnificent Othello with Sir Laurence Olivier in the title role. It's the hottest ticket in town.

Meanwhile, No Strings, which is American popular entertainment and private enterprise at its purest, is closing for lack of customers. Othello you can't get into.

You can't say the people don't want culture, but they need a little help from the government to get it.

Offended Simone Draws the Line

By SHEILAH GRAHAM

NEW YORK (NANA)—Simone Signoret's reason for leaving Zorba the Greek and Anthony Quinn flat on their backs in Greece: "I simply could not play a prostitute aged 65. Forty-five perhaps, but not 65." Are there any? In real life Simone is 43.

I must find out what is bothering Shelley Winters when I see her. She has gained weight again. And this usually means she is unhappy... Yul Brynner is missing up the UN's accounting department. As a dollar-a-year man for the world organization, Yul has saved his cheques for the past five years and framed them. And you know what that can do to bookkeeping.

Rita Moros meant it about living for good in London. She is starring on the stage there in She Loves Me. The New York critics called it the best musical last year... Producer Jimmy Woolf talking about Kim Novak in Of Human Bondage, which co-stars Kim and Laurence Harvey—"She was a bore and tiresome and difficult, but I must give her credit for a remarkably fine performance." Those who know Mr. Woolf know that he never praises unless he absolutely means it. So when are we going to see the film?

Sammy Davis, Jr. has returned to New York from his royal command performance in wife May Britt's hometown of Stockholm. He has a busy schedule. Rehearsals for Golden Boy start after his two weeks at the Copacabana. He will tour the U.S. and open in New York at the end of September. The leading character played by William Holden in the movie was called Joe Bonaparte. He is now Joe Wellington. The play will not be seen in the south. The leading lady, the love interest, is Paula Wayne and she's white.

The Russian consulate in New York called Paramount and asked for a special showing of Robinson Crusoe on Mars. This is described as a science-fiction film... Maylie Mills' first screen kiss takes place in a hearse, of all things, in her picture for Walt Disney, The Moonspinners... Linda Christian must have a new boy friend. She's been visiting her astrologer. Always does to make sure his chart coincides with hers.

Black "Combat" Jason recently bought a Los Angeles office building with his loot from the show. New bride Shirley sold it to him and she will manage the place. She's a real estate executive!

Someone was telling me that when Madame Jolie Gabor arrived in the United States during the Second World War she came on a tramp steamer. And clutched in her hot little hand was a note for a hundred dollars. It seemed an enormous amount of money to the Hungarians. "What shall I spend it on?" She asked daughter Zsa Zsa who was at the boat to meet her. "Two hats," replied Zsa.

Lana Turner's favorite drink in Mexico where she has been moviemaking, is tequila, laced with salt on the rim of the glass. Ugh!... Andrew Phillippe, picking up Shelley Winters on the set of A House Is Not a Home wanted to take her to a card game at Judy Garland's house. "That's all I need," said Shelley, "to show up at Judy's house with her ex-boy friend."

Peter Sellers' illness ruined the plan to have him show up unexpectedly in the Rock Hudson-Gina Lollobrigida comedy, Strange Bedfellows. Rock, caught in a London rainstorm, was to open an umbrella, not realising that printed on the broily, was "Save Our Unwed Mothers!" Sellers was to have stopped him with, "save one for me." It will be a year before Peter faces another camera. And he's lucky.

Corinne Calvet is in New York to do a television show. The French actress recently adopted a 15-month-old boy, as a companion, she hopes, for the son she had with divorced husband John Bromfield.

William Giles Top Navy Grad

Top graduate of 10 in the navy's recent 22-week surface weapons course at the Fleet school in HMCS Naden was AB William Giles, 2556 Glen Lake Road.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Giles, live at 9846 Fir Street, Chesham. AB Giles attended Cowichan High School in Duncan before joining navy in April, 1961.

Sub-Killers Home Soon

In the home stretch from Alaska are destroyer-escorts HMCS Fraser and Mackenzie now winding up a Far East cruise which began in early January.

The two Esquimaux-based ships are due back at noon May 5. They left Tokyo about 10 days ago and made a 24-hour refueling stop in Adak, Alaska, early this week.

Remember?

Memory is the passport back to a land that never changes—the past.

It is refreshing to the spirit to drink again from the fountain by remembering when:

Every girl wanted to be the first in her crowd to learn to dance the fox trot.

Security to a man was a big gold railroad watch and a thick gold chain. He would almost starve rather than pawn them.

Love was so blind that a fellow could spend an evening looking at pictures of his best girl's relatives in her family photo album—and still decide he wanted to go ahead and marry her.

Before going to church on Sunday it was customary for a fellow to stop off at the neighborhood barber shop for a shoe shine—and to hear the sports there brag about all the hellish things they'd done on Saturday night.

A man could achieve social status of a kind by learning to roll a cigarette with one hand—an old cowboy trick.

under the dinner table to park his chewing gum.

People wondered what things were coming to when it was reported that Rin-Tin-Tin, the popular film star, was being paid more than the president of the United States.

The height of devilry in grammar school was to steal a kiss from a squealing girl in the cloakroom after class.

It was the ambition of every lad under 16 to sneak into a burlesque show and find out what women were really like.

Those were the days. Remember?

Smoking Ads Banned By Cardston

CARDSTON, Alta. (CP)—Local tobacco advertising has been outlawed in this town of 3,000 near the Canada-United States border.

Town council, comprised of seven non-smokers, this week approved the necessary bylaw and Mayor Dennis Burt said he hoped other Canadian centres would follow.

Mayor Burt, who quit smoking 10 years ago, said the council could do nothing about outside advertising of tobacco and tobacco products.

BILLBOARDS
"We are concerned only with local advertising such as billboards, placards, handbills and such things. We hope others will follow our example and that eventually the Dominion government will outlaw all forms of tobacco advertising such as has been done in some European countries."

The town's three policemen began Thursday to notify businessmen of the bylaw and order the removal of tobacco advertisements.

MAXIMUM PENALTY

The bylaw, which includes a maximum penalty of a $100 fine or 90 days in jail or both, is believed the first such action by a Canadian town. Mayor Burt said town solicitors advised counsel it was within its powers to take such action.

In an interview, Mayor Burt said Thursday: "It is high time our society took steps to stop this insidious advertising of tobacco and its products in an effort to stop our young people from smoking."

World Airlines

Safety Record Set More Money Made

MONTREAL (UPI)—The world's airlines set a new safety record in 1963, the International Civil Aviation Organization (ICAO) reported yesterday.

They also flew more miles and made more money than usual.

An ICAO council report on last year's activities of scheduled airlines in 103 member states — excluding the Soviet Union and Communist China — showed a passenger fatality rate of 0.78 per 100,000,000 passenger-miles, the lowest ever recorded for world scheduled air services.

ALMOST 700
The council hastened to warn against "any complacency," noting that its members still averaged two serious crashes a month, killing almost 700 passengers during the year.

"Nevertheless," it added, "the further reduction of the 1962 accident rate, which was already low in comparison with previous years, is undoubtedly an achievement that can be regarded with satisfaction."

The council pointed to the continued growth in the number of jet aircraft as the key factor behind the improved safety record.

"If we consider the question of passenger safety—which is the most important objective for those concerned with public air transport—it is satisfactory to observe that the new jet aircraft... account for only slightly more than one-third of the passenger fatalities," the report said. "Exact statistics are not available, but it would seem clear that the gradual introduction of the large turbo-jet aircraft has been an important factor in the reduction of world accident rates."

OVER-ALL PROFIT

The council said airlines with in its member states showed an over-all operating profit last year of $185,000,000, representing 2.4 per cent of their operating revenues. It was up from $97,000,000 in 1962 and a loss of $118,000,000 the previous year. The report offered no breakdown as far as individual airlines were concerned.

As far as ton-miles of air-time were concerned, the report said 1963 showed an "average" increase of 12 per cent over the preceding year. Total ton-miles were now double the 1957 figures and larger in a single year than the combined total for the 1946-51 period, it said.

The council report also offered these comments:

END OF 1963

The world's airlines had 872 turbo-jets and 551 turbo-propeller aircraft in service by the end of 1963, up from 12 and 418 respectively in 1958. During the same five years, the number of piston-engine craft plying the world's air routes dropped from 1,736 to 1,400.

While the problem of aircraft noise continued to "defy any simple, readily available solution," there was "encouraging" progress in this field in improved aircraft design.

Millions Asked For Air Noise

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Nearly 1,000 property owners near Los Angeles International airport are seeking almost $16,000,000 damages in a suit filed against the city because of airport noise. The property owners argued that for more than five years about the length of time jet airliners have been in service—noise has interfered with the comfort and enjoyment of their property.

Plaintiffs in the case are residents of El Segundo, Lennox, Gardena, Palms Verdes Estates, Inglewood, Playa del Rey and other adjoining areas in the southwestern part of the city.

Bossy's Belch A Plug

FAIRVIEW, Utah (UPI)—The manufacturer of a widely advertised indigestion tablet can call on a three-year-old Guernsey cow for a testimonial.

Farmer Calvin Garlick found the cow lying in a pasture, badly bloated. He ran to the house, obtained the bottle of tablets from his wife and dumped the whole bottleful into a container of water.

The Garlicks forced the bubbling liquid into the cow, waited a minute and watched as Bossy, belching and belching, got to her feet—apparently relieved.

Dockers Get Suspension For Refusing to Work

VANCOUVER (CP)—One hundred longshoremen were suspended Thursday for refusing to work on four Japanese ships in harbor, despite a B.C. Supreme Court injunction banning the boycott.

The men, members of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union, were told by the union not to work in support of Japanese dock workers' requests for better working conditions.

The Shipping Federation of B.C. Wednesday obtained an injunction against the planned boycott from Mr. Justice Angelo Branca. It handed each man a one-day suspension for refusing a work assignment.

At least a dozen Japanese ships in U.S. Pacific coast ports were believed to have been affected. There were none in Victoria at the time.

Car Parts Squabble May End Up in Court

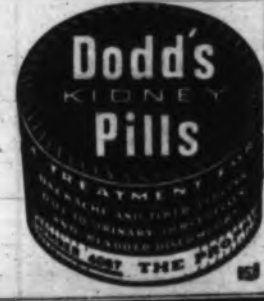

OTTAWA (UPI)—United States and Canadian cabinet ministers Thursday found themselves in wide disagreement over this country's program to boost the export of auto parts.

U.S. Treasury Secretary Dillon admitted there was "a difference of opinion" on the issue and said complaints from U.S. parts manufacturers could end up before the law courts.

External Affairs Minister Martin pointed out that increase in imports of U.S. parts had outrun Canadian exports five times during the first two months of this year and said he knew of no change in Canada's plans.

A communique said the U.S. delegation "stressed their concern over the possible adverse effects of the Canadian automotive program on certain U.S. parts producers."

Trade Expansion

Elimination of Tariffs Called for by U.S.

GENEVA (Reuters)—The United States Thursday called on developed countries to eliminate all trade barriers, including tariffs, quantitative restrictions, internal taxes and other restrictions on consumption.

The call was contained in a series of principles issued to the committee on trade expansion at the world conference on trade and development meeting here.

The U.S. document said primary exporting countries should have recourse to international provision of compensatory finance to offset shortfalls in their export earnings due to factors beyond their control.

Developing countries in the same geographic area should be able to undertake arrangements among themselves for regional integration of specific economic sectors in order to create markets of adequate size to permit large-scale economies.

Two Former Councillors Seeking Oak Bay Seats

So far, it will be a two-man fight for a seat on Oak Bay council left vacant this month by the resignation of Coun. Fred Robinson.

John D. Watts and Fred Hawes yesterday announced they would run for office in the resulting May 23 byelection.

Nominations will be open until May 14.

Miss Clay Retains B.C. Library Post

Miss Margaret J. Clay of Victoria has been re-elected to the Public Library Commission of B.C., a voluntary group which promotes library development.

Re-elected chairman is Mrs. A. P. Parr of New Westminster who joined the commission in 1961. Also re-elected members are H. Norman Lidster of New Westminster and W. S. Pipes and R. G. Miller, both Vancouver.

Admissibility Argued

Evidence of Recording Given in Rape Trial

PRINCE GEORGE (CP)—Evidence concerning a tape-recorded interview of James Leonard Meeker was entered Thursday in Meeker's trial on a charge of rape.

An RCMP officer testified that a typewritten extract of the recording was made in the police office at Cranbrook.

A 12-man assize jury was absent from the courtroom for a day and a half while lawyers argued admissibility of the evidence.

Meeker is charged with an attack on a 48-year-old grandmother near Matsqui last June. The jury also heard a transcript of evidence given at Meeker's preliminary hearing by Mrs. Jean Evans, a neighbor of the woman who claims she was attacked.

She said she saw her neighbor "staggering down the road, stumbling forward."

Mrs. Evans testified the woman said: "I need my doctor and the police I will never be clean again."

Columnist Seeks Protection

OTTAWA (CP)—A bill which would protect news reporters from being required by the courts to disclose their sources of information was introduced in the Commons Thursday by Douglas Fisher (NDP—Port Arthur).

Mr. Fisher, a syndicated newspaper columnist, said the proposal is a personal one which does not have the approval of his NDP colleagues.

Servers Plan Car Wash Saturday

Members of the Servers Guild of St. George will spend Saturday washing cars — to raise cash for an educational trip to Sorrento on Shuswap Lake.

There they hope to visit the newly-bought Lay Training Centre of the Anglican Church, between May 15 and 18.

Car wash service will be from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday at the Christ Church Cathedral parking lot on Rockland Avenue, the Super-Vu Store at Fort and Pandora and the Marquette Chevron Service at Shelbourne and Pear.

Strong Quake

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI)—A "strong and prolonged" earthquake shook central Chile Tuesday night, but police said there were no casualties or notable damage.

An official report said the quake registered most strongly in such centrally located cities as Santiago, Valparaiso and Vina Del Mar.

No Further Probe

Death of Child Purely Accident

Saanich Police Chief Bert Pearson said yesterday his department plans no further investigation into the accidental death of a child Monday and subsequent coroner's investigation.

Vicky Edwards, 19 months, died Monday in hospital after being kicked in the head by a horse belonging to her father, Dr. William Edwards, 4035 Braefoot.

Chief Pearson said yesterday he was satisfied the tragedy was "purely and simply an accident," and the coroner had acted in accordance with regulations after the child's death.

Liberals Won't Tell How Ridings Carved

OTTAWA (UPI)—Conservative Paul Martineau yesterday found no backers outside his own party for a request for access to preliminary "maps" outlining possible redistribution of Canada's electoral boundaries.

The "maps," which Transport Minister Pickersgill said weren't maps at all but "mathematical exercises," have been drawn up by Chief Electoral Officer Nelson Castonguay at the request of parliament.

According to those few members who have seen them, they are intended to explore the possible variations for the redistribution which now is before the Commons for debate.

So far two sets of sketches have been drawn representing possible redistribution.

SUPPORT SENIOR CITIZENS' DAY

Saturday May 2nd!

Society must find a way to involve the aged in its activities. What the elderly need more than anything else is a place in the world. Old age should be welcomed with serenity and lived with dignity. The responsibility for the aged is everybody's business!

Quotes From Senator
David Croll

The Aged

YOU HELP

With your generous support of these Silver Threads Events on Saturday!

DOOR-TO-DOOR CANVASS Saturday, May 2nd

On this day a willing youngster will be calling at your door to ask your help to build the Senior Citizens Activity Centre. Your dollars will insure success!

THE SILVER THREAD Saturday, May 2nd

Let's make a Silver Thread of nickels, dimes, quarters and half dollars along alternate sides of Douglas Street from Fort to Flagard. 53 youngsters from No. 89 Kinsmen Squadron Royal Canadian Air Cadets and the Army Cadet Corps will help out by patrolling the Silver Thread from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

SHOPPING CENTRE TAG DAY Saturday, May 2nd

Senior Citizens will be on hand in Victoria's Shopping Centres to ask your support by buying a tag. They are helping to build a place to defeat loneliness. Will you help, too? The High-C Boys and Girls from Oak Bay United Church and First United will be tagging in the 700 Block Yates Street.

DOWNTOWN BUSINESS CANVASS

The Senior Citizens themselves are calling on the local merchants to help the fund. Please give them a warm welcome and be as generous as your means will allow.

Corvair Monza Club Coupe

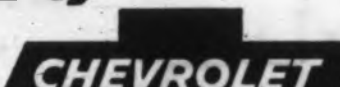

BUILT TO DO MORE THAN YOU'LL EVER DEMAND!

"Alaska and the Yukon Territories to Ontario... Corvair is my car" says Mr D. A. Grenier of Camp Shilo, Man.

Welcome to the club, Mr Grenier. It's a kind of unofficial club, made up of tens of thousands of enthusiastic Corvair owners like yourself. Naturally, they don't all like the same things about their Corvair. Some go for the sporty look and feel of Corvair; others like the very 'personal' feeling they have about this rear-engine beauty; still others praise the comfort, the style, the uniqueness. Your 10,000 mile trip over some of the roughest roads in Canada obviously makes you a 'dependability' enthusiast! Corvair is a lot of different things to a lot of people — but is simply great to everyone who owns one. (A Chevrolet dealer's a good place to get the facts... and immediate delivery of your Corvair.)

Dear Sirs,

From the first time I saw the Corvair, I have been very impressed by the strength and compact characteristics of the Corvair. The stability and dependability of the Corvair has given me a sense of security, knowing it will take me anywhere.

I have driven it over 10,000 miles and over some of the roughest terrain in our Canadian North. I can honestly say I have yet to see any other car keep pace with the Corvair.

Under extreme conditions of cold weather and rough mountain roads it has surpassed all my expectations.

I drove all over Alaska and the Yukon Territories, through the B.C. interior, then across the Prairies to Toronto. After a tour of Ontario, I returned to Brandon, Manitoba.

So I think you will understand why the Corvair is my car and will remain so.

Yours truly,
D. A. Grenier

A Tale of Gallantry

A tale of gallantry in defence of Victoria womanhood was unfolded in city magistrate's court yesterday, which resulted in a minimum fine for one man and a jail term for the other.

Walker Stoldt was fined $2.50 and costs for causing a disturbance for fighting, while Russell Pearce was sent to Oakalla for 30 days.

Events began at 10:45 p.m. Wednesday on Yates Street, while a young lady was waiting for a bus.

Pearce happened along and attempted to make conversation with the girl, but was rebuffed.

Later, when she was joined at the bus stop by several lady friends, Pearce referred to the girls collectively as being of easy virtue.

On the scene came Stoldt, who struck Pearce, and invited him to step into an alley "to settle this thing like gentlemen."

Meanwhile, one of the young women, feeling matters had gone far enough, approached a patrolling constable and informed him of the impending clash.

When he arrived, the jousting was already under way—although neither man had been really unhorsed.

Away they went to a place of food and lodging, operated in the public interest by the city of Victoria.

Pearce, in court yesterday, blamed his deed on his long-building frustration while attempting to obtain employment and female companionship. He has a police record for fraud, theft and creating disturbances, but maintained this was "the first time I have been vulgar to women."

Stoldt's explanation of his conduct: "I thought it was the decent thing to do."

Spare Time All Signed Up

A young sailor will be kept busy in his spare time this month with public works projects for the municipality of Saanich.

Robert G. Carter, 19, HMCS Skeena, pleaded guilty in magistrate's court yesterday to damaging eight directional signs on municipal roads.

Court was told he removed them from area roads March 25 and hauled them away to a spot where about 20 more signs were found by police.

In addition to fining Carter $50, Magistrate William Ostler ordered the seaman to personally re-erect the signs under supervision of a public works employee.

The work will be done at the convenience of the municipality, Magistrate Ostler ordered. He also ordered Carter to pay $10 damages toward replacing each of the eight signs.

Harry Williams, 4092 Carey, had a few drinks Wednesday before driving his car on a Saanich road.

In fact, when stopped by police, he admitted drinking two 26-ounce bottles of whisky, two mickey bottles of rum and about 20 glasses of beer in an 18-hour period.

Then he told police, "I am still able to drive better than you."

He pleaded guilty to impaired driving yesterday and was fined $300.

A youth was fined $60 in city court yesterday after pleading guilty to being a minor found in a licensed premises.

It was the third conviction on similar charges in eight months for William Brian Robb, 19.

Robb told Magistrate Ostler he had gone into a city beer parlor only to look for a friend.

Bruce Lindal, 2640 Cook, was fined $25 in city court when he pleaded guilty to burning rubbish without a permit.

He was charged by firemen after a trash fire apparently caused a spark to ignite a building on his property. Lindal told court he was not aware burning regulations were in effect March 25, when he lit the fire.

1,811 Workers Hired Aged 45 and Over

At the end of last month 1,811 workers aged 45 and over—349 of them in British Columbia—had been hired under the Older Worker Employment and Training Incentive program, Minister of Labor, Allan J. MacEachern said yesterday.

Older workers who had gained jobs under the program had been unemployed for six months or more. Employers received an incentive of up to $75 a month for each worker hired.

Mr. MacEachern said the experimental program had provided further evidence of the need of workers to make every effort to improve their skills and educational standards in order to meet the demands of today's jobs.

He said an evaluation of the program will be made in the next few months and it is hoped the information obtained will be helpful in planning future action on behalf of older workers.

Resolutions Discussed

Discussion of the provincial resolutions to be presented at the Pinewoods conference in May was main business of the dinner meeting of Victoria Business and Professional Women's Club at War Amps Hall, Oak Bay Avenue.

National resolutions, to be presented at the biennial conference at Ottawa in July, were also discussed.

Mrs. E. Forsyth, chairman of the resolutions committee, introduced the members of the committee taking part. They were Miss Ella Brett, regional adviser, Miss Elizabeth Forbes, Mrs. C. Jahnus and Mrs. B. Ward. Unable to be present were Miss Marjorie Press and Mrs. B. Smith.

King Fisherman Contest Starts Today

The 1964 edition of The Daily Colonist King Fisherman Contest started this morning at the crack of dawn and will continue until Oct. 31. More than 200 weigh-in stations—from Oak Bay to Port

McNeill, and from Parksville on the east coast to Tofino on the west coast—stand ready to weigh fish into the contest. Wherever you fish, you will find a handy weigh-in station. Actually the King Fisherman contest is seven contests in one: six monthly competitions for hidden-weight prizes and buttons for the biggest fish in each category; six-month-long contest for trophies for the biggest fish in each category and hidden-weight prizes including a trip for two to New Zealand by Canadian Pacific Airlines, a weekend camping-fishing trip with Vancouver Island Helicopters, an aluminum cartop boat and other prizes. (For best bets to catch contest fish this weekend, see

Alec Merriman's column on Page 15.) Everyone who fishes Vancouver Island waters, except holders of commercial fishing licences and fishing guides, is eligible to enter the contest. You don't have to be a

Colonist subscriber to enter, but it pays to be a subscriber. Only Colonist subscribers are eligible for merchandise prizes like the New Zealand trip. Salmon must weigh five pounds or more and trout and bass one pound or more.

$50,000,000 Bond Issue For Peace

VANCOUVER (CP) — A new $50,000,000 provincial party bond issue to finance part of the Peace River hydro project was announced Thursday night by Premier Bennett.

The bonds will bear interest at five per cent and will go on sale here Aug. 1.

Bennett:

Socreds Outdo Them All

VANCOUVER (CP) — Premier Bennett said Thursday night the aim of his Social Credit government has been to provide British Columbians with "enlightened capitalism."

To this end, he said, Social Credit has tried to "take the best elements of every worthwhile point of view—the best of the so-called left, right and centre—and put them to work in meeting today's necessities and preparing for tomorrow's challenges."

ALL PARTIES OUTDONE

As a result, his government had been "more conservative than the Conservatives in financial matters, more liberal than the Liberals in terms of providing the nation's highest old-age and social assistance benefits, and even more in favor of public ownership than the CCF because of our ferry system and hydro program."

Speaking to Vancouver Junior Chamber of Commerce, the premier said the government expropriated the B.C. Electric Co. in 1961 because it had to choose between "high-cost private power and low-cost public power."

CHOICE OBVIOUS

He said power rates in B.C. were high because of corporation taxes the B.C.E. had to pay to the federal government and because the B.C.E. wasn't interested in "massive hydro developments that would make low-cost power a reality."

The government had finally decided that for B.C.'s development "the choice was obvious."

"In fact, it was a choice between jobs and no jobs for our ever-increasing population."

Cuba Trade

Butler

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson used a rather blunt approach to impress on British Foreign Secretary R. A. Butler U.S. annoyance at Britain's continued trade with Cuba.

It was learned that the president spoke with exceptional force when he met briefly with Butler in Washington earlier this week. It was understood Butler was somewhat taken back with the president's direct approach.

RELATIONS AT LOW EBB

The episode led some observers to conclude that Britain's continued trade with Cuba had brought Anglo-American relations to a low ebb.

The U.S. reaction apparently came in the nature of a surprise to Butler.

WARNED BY RUSK

Butler received his first warning that trouble was on the way when he met Secretary of State Rusk.

Rusk told him President Johnson was annoyed Britain should sell not only additional goods to Cuba but also locomotives and cranes, protesting this trade was of insignificant proportion.

It is understood Rusk made the point that if this trade was small then why did Britain

ORDER: INTEGRATE

OTTAWA (CP)—Trans-Canada Air Lines and Canadian Pacific Airlines have been told to integrate their overseas services under a new air transport policy announced Thursday night by Transport Minister Pickersgill.

The new policy, announced to reporters after the Commons adjournment — a procedural wrangle took up the time in which Mr. Pickersgill planned to make the statement — advocated a non-competitive and non-conflicting plan for the international services of both airlines.

"In the international field, air services provided by Canadian airlines should serve the Canadian interest as a whole; these services should not be competitive or conflicting, but should represent a single integrated plan, which could be achieved by amalgamation, by partnership or by a clear division of fields of operation."

TALES STARTED

Mr. Pickersgill said he met Monday with CNR President Donald Gordon, CPR President N. R. Crump, TCA President Gordon McGregor and CPA President Grant McConchie.

Talks between the two airlines started immediately, he said, and "very considerable clarification" could be expected by the end of May.

The transport minister said that any agreement reached between the two airlines on how

B.C. Foursome Held As Dope Smugglers

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Two men and two women, Canadians from the Vancouver area, were arrested on a heroin smuggling charge as they crossed the border from Tijuana, Mex., Thursday, customs agents said.

Four ounces of heroin were found hidden on the two women, agent John Maxey said. He said the heroin would have been worth about $60,000 on the Canadian black market.

SUSPECTS

DEUG EQUIPMENT

Maxey said narcotics paraphernalia was found in a motel room near the border which the Campbells occupied. He said Campbell had been under surveillance and had made a number of trips from Vancouver to Tijuana during the past year.

All four have been charged with smuggling heroin and a hearing before a U.S. commissioner was set for this afternoon.

'Closure' Cries Ring in House

OTTAWA (CP) — Amid cries of "closure," the Commons' experimental late-night adjournment debate session exploded into a procedural uproar Thursday night.

In spite of vain attempts by Deputy Speaker Lucien Lamoureux to maintain order, MPs wrangled over points of order and privilege with the result that only one of the scheduled three 10-minute debates took place.

STATEMENT BLOCKED

Transport Minister Pickersgill was precluded from making an expected statement on air policy in the Commons, and Heath Macquarrie (PC —

Navy Hydrofoil Will Be Rough

Sailors Join 'Jet' Set

OTTAWA (CP) — The sailors who man the navy's first anti-submarine hydrofoil boat will probably look like jet fighter pilots. They will have to wear ear protectors because of the noise of the hydrofoil's turbo-prop engine and wear crash helmets and be strapped into their seats because of the severe buffeting by the sea.

Running into a wave an inch high at those speeds will be like hitting a brick wall, said Dr. A. H. Zimmerman, chairman of the Defence Research Board, in an interview.

The board is doing the "human engineering" for the 200-ton boat which will hit speeds of some 70 miles an hour.

The first hydrofoil, being manufactured by de Havilland Aircraft of Canada, is scheduled for sea trials in 1966. At high speeds, she will ride out of the water on foils.

He was to board a Moscow-bound Russian plane in Paris.

Only Canada's Rivers, Trees Like Russia

TORONTO (UPI) — The last article written for the Soviet newspaper Izvestia by ousted journalist Vasily Tarasov, ordered out of Canada for spying, emphasized that similarities between Russia and Canada ended after geographical considerations.

The translated article said:

"It is only the landscape of Canada, its stormy or quietly-flowing rivers surrounded by forests and silvery birch growths, the dark green wall of coniferous trees that remind you of your homeland."

"This question is of such vast importance," the article added, "the government was forced to establish a special ministry."

Pipe Repair Job To Cost $15,000

TOFINO—Cost of finding and repairing 1,500 feet of water pipe washed away in the recent tidal wave, is estimated at $15,000.

Engineers, divers and workmen have failed so far to find the missing pipe, which ran under the water from the supply on Meares Island to Tofino. Residents are now using the old reservoir, and the water, which discolors tubs and sinks, is boiled before drinking.

New Recreation Look Urged by Old Foes

NANAIMO—Two men who have bitterly opposing views met face to face at the B.C. Federation of Fish and Game Clubs in Nanaimo yesterday and both called for a new look at recreation and resource lands.

Recreation Minister Kiernan called for a new middle of the road philosophy for multiple use of natural resources.

"There is no longer room for everyone to do just as they please, but there is more than ample room for all if we can learn to live together in harmony," he said.

But the call for a new philosophy didn't please Roderick Haig-Brown who helped lead the bitter opposition to Mr. Kiernan's statements in the legislature indicating support for controlled logging and mining in wilderness parks.

Charge of Illegal U-Turn Becomes Careless Driving

NANAIMO—A Nanaimo man originally charged with making an illegal U-turn at Commercial and Skinner Streets March 29, was found guilty of driving without due care and attention and fined $25 by Magistrate Lionel Beevor-Potts.

Alvin Joseph Jean, 667 Nicol Street, was the driver of a car which struck a fire hydrant at the intersection as he attempted to change direction on Commercial Street.

Leslie Wayne Phillips, 19, was fined $25 for being a person under 21 and entering a government liquor store.

George Mutter of Nanaimo was fined $40 for driving without due care and attention.

Saturday Morning Story-Teller Honored by Small Listeners

ALBERNI—Mrs. D. B. Loyd, who has conducted the Saturday morning story hours for Alberni branch, Vancouver Island Regional Library, for six seasons, was honored by the children Saturday morning.

A farewell gift to Mrs. Loyd was presented by Leah Grinwis, who expressed the youngsters' appreciation and their regret that their reader was leaving the district.

Ald. George Dunbar, council representative to the Regional Library Board, presented prizes to Leah Grinwis, senior member reading most books during the last season; Mona Miles, the junior member reading most books; and Gayle Hart for attendance.

LAKE COWICHAN—Junior forest wardens are preparing for two days of activity in the fire prevention education program which is climaxed by a fast moving forest fire manoeuvre, Saturday, May 16.

The program, prepared by the Lake Cowichan Junior Forest Warden Council, will see young wardens from many parts of the Island joining in celebration of the Cowichan area's being named "Forest Conservation Week Centre" by the Canadian Forestry Association of B.C.

During the program a Martin Mars water bomber will fight a simulated forest fire, guided by a bird dog plane.

CHEMUNUS—Three functions were held here to raise funds for the Calvin family who lost their belongings in a fire recently.

The Catholic Women's League sponsored a kitchen shower.

The WA to the Royal Canadian Legion (Branch 191) held a community miscellaneous shower in the Legion Hall.

PORT ALBERNI—Three choirs will participate in a concert to be held here Saturday in aid of Alberni Valley and West Coast Disaster Fund.

To be held in ADSS auditorium under auspices of the Soli Deo Gloria Choir, the concert will have the mayors of the Twin Cities as patrons.

First Baptist and Alberni Indian Residential School choirs will take part in the program.

TOFINO—Two new tie-up floats have been completed at the McCallum Sales fish camp by contractors Thomas Gibson and Sons.

CHEMUNUS—Fire and ambulance calls have been keeping Chemunus Volunteer Fire Department busy all day.

On the weekend there were several brush fire and chimney fire calls.

There were several ambulance calls, one following a two-car crash in North Chemunus involving a number of juveniles. One juvenile was taken to hospital.

TOFINO—Capt. Arthur Burchett, partner in the Tofino Tug and Barge Company, is doing well after a recent back operation in St. Vincent's Hospital, Vancouver.

Capt. Burchett expects to be home on a visit to his wife and family next week in Tofino.

DUNCAN—Cub packs here will participate in this year's Cowichan Valley Wolf Cub hobby show Saturday, at the United Church hall, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

DUNCAN—The Drylanders, the National Film Board story of the Canadian west, is being shown now at the Odeon Theatre.

Accepted Access Studied

By ALAN MERRIMAN

NANAIMO—Next problem of the provincial government access committee will be to consider the problem of access to areas that have been used and accepted as recreational areas to which access may be gained through use of private road, private trail, or even private property.

That information was given to the B.C. Federation of Fish and Game Clubs Convention here yesterday by provincial fish and game branch director James Hatter.

He didn't say so, but observers noted that is the exact problem posed by the cutting off by new logging interests of the trail to Port Renfrew's Botanical Beach.

NEW ACT URGED

He also disclosed that the fish and game branch is actively studying the effects of agriculture and logging chemicals and sprays on fish and game. His branch is represented on a provincial committee known as Safe Use and Game Clubs Convention here yesterday by provincial fish and game branch director James Hatter.

There is need for a government laboratory to undertake testing of poisonous materials, he said. He said analysis have been made on pheasants in areas exposed to agricultural spray programs, but so far no dangerous concentrations of the chemicals have been found.

The fish and game branch also participates in meetings with the B.C. Loggers Association and the B.C. Forestry Association.

Dr. Hatter said the provincial inter-departmental access committee had recommended the new study to the legislative committee.

He also disclosed that the fish and game branch is actively studying the effects of agriculture and logging chemicals and sprays on fish and game. His branch is represented on a provincial committee known as Safe Use in Agriculture Committee and said this committee has recommended an over all legislative act to deal with the use of pesticides.

He said a Canadian duck stamp is under consideration and money from the sale of these stamps would provide more for refuges and habitat protection.

WELCOME CHANCE

"The time is here when Canadian duck hunters should welcome the opportunity to contribute," he said.

He disclosed that during the past year several important water fowl areas have been surveyed along the coast of Vancouver Island with a view to creating crown reserves to protect waterfowl.

RESERVES OBTAINED

Map reserves have already been obtained on Hanson's Lagoon and Sea Otter Cove at the north end of Vancouver Island, he said.

Fish, Game Groups Spurn New Outlook

NANAIMO—Delegates to the B.C. Federation of Fish and Game Clubs convention here yesterday turned down a proposal to broaden their outlook by changing the federation name to B.C. Wildlife Federation.

Plan had been to encourage other outdoors groups to join with fish and game clubs to present a stronger voice on behalf of recreationists.

Delegates approved a resolution appointing a federation committee to study and examine all public accounts of the recreation department. The feeling was that the fish and game branch doesn't get a big enough proportion of money raised through fishing and hunting licences.

A resolution calling for an investigation into the use of helicopters for hunting was approved.

It was suggested that legislation restricting use of conventional aircraft for hunting is adequate, but that helicopters now pose a new problem.

Use of helicopters as a means of transportation to hunting areas was not questioned.

Another resolution would initiate an investigation of the use of houseboats, especially with concern for pollution problems.

IT BEATS ME

By Jim Tang

There is considerable irony in the fact that there are signs that people in the regimented areas of the world are getting pretty fed up with it while we in the world where freedom has been a cherished possession are being forced into regimentation and even, in some instances, practically demanding it.

This is not the place for politics, and politics is not what is to be discussed. It is the regimentation being imposed on our very young by the constantly spreading juvenile sports programs.

They are a phenomenon of our time, a so-called, "modern" world which far too often forgets, or refuses to acknowledge, that there is much of the past which could have been advantageously retained. One of those things is that little boys are little boys and should never be hurried out of the finest hours of their lives.

That was certainly never the intention when well-meaning citizens first got together to organize recreation for the small fry who were left with few places to play because of the increasing urbanization of our population. It is not the intention even now, but juvenile sports have been to some extent invaded by the do-gooders and the causists and the original concept seems, quite often, to have been misplaced.

Organized juvenile sport has become, and again too often, just a convenient stepping stone for some to attain community recognition. It has, through these types, become so associated with the fight against juvenile delinquency that one could easily believe that if it wasn't for these programs that all our youngsters would grow up to be felons. For others it is an almost holy crusade. And these in their blindness are no more helpful than the status-seekers.

Not nearly all—surely a minority—of those connected with most programs are in either class. But in these classes are the more aggressive types and aggressive minorities often rule. Or spoil.

Good, clean recreation, particularly of the competitive type, is one of the best methods there is—outside the ones that should be used in the home—of keeping most boys out of serious trouble but the ever-increasing regimentation imposed by adults will inevitably beat down its possibilities. It's time to take stock. More and more people are wondering whether or not the good equals the harm being done.

One of these is Vince Leah, veteran Winnipeg columnist who has a lengthy record of active participation in juvenile recreation. Read what he says, and think.

"I suppose it's almost sacrilegious for me to state my proposal during the Stanley Cup playoffs but I want to get it off my chest while people are still thinking about hockey. My proposal is to abolish minor league. I mean particularly the really minor league hockey—the teams that adults run for kids from eight to maybe fifteen.

"I don't know exactly why, but every time grown men get seriously interested in a kid's sport and try to promote it and improve it they end up teaching the youngsters adult sins and adult anxieties of the kind that make ulcers. This happened to a scandalous degree in the United States with Little League baseball and it perverts the spirit of schoolboy football in a great many Canadian and American communities. Now, I'm afraid, the infection has reached kid hockey in many Canadian towns.

"... Space age or not, a boy's idea of fun is still doing what comes naturally. The most neglected expression on the playgrounds today is 'let's choose our sides.' Strict supervision or regimentation during leisure hours is an infringement on a boy's God-given right to explore the pleasures of being young.

"You cannot legislate fun. Parental duty ends with the provision of adequate recreational facilities. Any form of supervision should be done discreetly from the outer rim of the circle of youth, stepping forth to offer guidance only on direct invitation.

"No boy should be told he is not good enough to play 'regular.' You never see any substitutes sitting on the sidelines when boys gather to play by themselves. Winning becomes secondary because the gang is having too much fun to keep score. The game is over when the sun goes down, or when the kid who owns the ball or puck is called home for supper.

"Nobody goes home tear-stained in defeat, admonished by a coach or parent for making an error or letting in a soft goal at the last moment. They go home tired and contented with a date to continue the game tomorrow.

"Children should not play games they are incapable of organizing or legislating themselves. I have seen parents of Little Leaguers embroiled in fist fights and vicious name-calling in the stands while their sons tried to control their emotions out on the diamond.

"I have been on the receiving end of tirades from parents who wanted to know why their boy's name wasn't in the paper for getting two or three singles. They don't really care about the boy. They want something to brag about at the office. I'd prefer to brag that my boy had been out skating all day and came home, tired, rosy-cheeked and hungry, ready to accept regimentation at home and at school. They'll graduate all too quickly into the all-important game of life. Nobody should be relegated to the end of the bench at 12. They should post a sign on all playgrounds: 'Parents admitted by invitation only.' AMEN.

Five All-Star Positions To Vanquished Hawks

MONTREAL (CP)—Chicago Black Hawks, who just missed first place in the National Hockey League this year and then were knocked out in the Stanley Cup semi-final, got some more news for their wounds Thursday, taking all but one spot on the NHL's first all-star team.

Only defenceman Tim Horton of Toronto Maple Leafs, winners of the Stanley Cup, was able to convince sports writers and broadcasters in the six NHL cities that he deserves a place at the top.

ONE UNANIMOUS

There was one unanimous choice—Bobby Hull, the Black Hawk left winger who polled a perfect 180 points, 90 in each half of the season. One Black Hawk also made the second team, defenceman Elmer Vasko.

The teams, with points received bracketed:

First team:

Goal—Glenn Hall (132); defencemen—Pierre Plante (108) and Horton (124); centre—Stan Mikita (145); left wing—Hull (180); right wing—Ken Wharram (144).

Second team:

MORE MONEY

The Black Hawks chosen on the two teams will get more than just a balm for their injured pride. Each member of the first team gets $1,000 and everyone on the second team $500. In addition, first-team members on the mid-season vote get $500 and the runners-up $250. Those who led the second-half voting also get $500 and the runners-up $250.

MIKITA MOVES UP

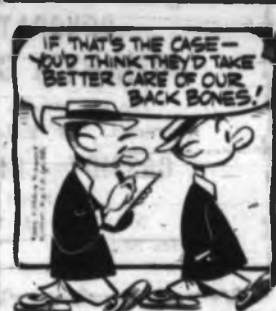

The final first team is the same as the mid-season one except for Mikita, who moved from the second-team berth to out Beliveau.

Changes on the second team $500, are Plante, Horton, Mikita, Hull and Wharram and Howe. Wharram and Howe had an identical 88 points, but Wharram received nine first-place votes to Howe's eight and thus was given the first-team distinction.

This is the 15th time—a record—Howe has been an all-star. He and retired Maurice Richard of Montreal shared the old mark. Howe—and Richard—have been on the first all-star team eight times.

Hull Hurt

DETROIT (AP)—Chicago Black Hawk hockey star Bobby Hull remained in satisfactory condition in hospital here Thursday night.

Hull suffered minor hand injuries early Wednesday when his car skidded on wet pavement and struck the rear of a semi-trailer truck. Hospital authorities said he is being held for observation.

Battle Mars Close Game

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—Two old lacrosse rivals battled into overtime Thursday night before New Westminster defeated Vancouver, 20-14, in an Inter-City Lacrosse League game that erupted with a donnybrook.

The fight broke out with only 33 seconds remaining on the clock in overtime.

Vancouver's John Surinak jumped on New Westminster goalie Les Norman. Several other players entered the fray and six 10-minute misconduct penalties were handed out before order was restored.

Among the penalties handed out were match penalties to Norman and Bill Chisholm of Vancouver.

Jack Blonda and Cliff Sepica each scored four goals for New Westminster. Bill Wilson and Bill Cookley each got three. Others came from Shute, Oddy, Saunders,

Bullfighting Pays But Pace Rugged

TORONTO (CP)—Athletes whose thinking pertains mainly to money would do well to take up the art of bullfighting—if they are willing to take the chance of getting goosed or killed.

That's the view of Carlos Arruza of Mexico, one of the world's top bullfighters until he retired 10 years ago. Arruza said in an interview here Monday he made nearly $2,000,000 during his career.

Asked about the pay for bullfighters, he said: "It's a lot better than your professional athletes get for football, hockey or soccer but the chances of getting killed are greater."

Arruza said he received $10,000 for each performance in Mexico and as much as $25,000 for a performance in Spain.

He said he had been in the United States for several years.

THURSDAY NIGHT, ENDING THE DODGERS' FOUR-GAME WINNING STREAK

Backed by the seventh inning uprising and an 11-hit attack, former Dodger Dick Farrell went the distance for the Colts, checking Los Angeles on nine hits for his third victory without a loss.

In the only other National League game played Philadelphia Phillies defeated Cincinnati Reds 3-1. San Francisco at Chicago and Pittsburgh at Milwaukee were postponed because of rain.

In the American League, Kansas City jolted Detroit Tigers 10-3 on rookie Tom Reynolds three-run homer in the first inning. Cleveland Indians walloped Minnesota Twins 8-4. The only other scheduled game, Chicago at New York, was postponed because of rain.

AT HOUSTON, A GAMBLE BY WHITE

White's gamble paid off as the Colts broke a 3-3 tie in the last of the seventh. Eddie Kasko led off with a single and was sacrificed to second, and at that point Dodger manager Walter Alton—with two left-handed batters due up—brought in southpaw Jim Brewer to replace starter Phil Orsica.

Craft let Al Spangler bat, and Brewer walked him. Then at down the right field line, Craft sent up the right-handed hitting White to swing for Walt Bond, who had three hits including a two-run homer in the first.

But White singled past third to drive in the tie-breaking run, and on the throw to the plate the other runners moved up. Bob Aspromonte was given an intentional walk to load the bases, and now Craft let Staub, another lefty, hit for himself.

Staub lashed a three-run double down the right field line.

At Cincinnati, the Phillies scored two quick runs in the first inning then hung on for the victory.

Rootie Richie Allen drove in his 12th run of the season with a double after Tony Taylor led off with a single and John Callison walked. Callison scored when Joe Nuxhall hit Tony Gonzalez with a pitched ball in a bases-loaded situation.

Payday, of Sorts For Sonny Liston

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

MacDonald owes $400,000 as part of the title fight guarantee.

THIS INDEBTNESS AROSE

because of levies filed by the internal revenue service, which prohibited further payment by MacDonald to Inter-Continental, N.Y. said.

"These levies were recently released by the government and the way now is cleared for MacDonald to make payment. When the sum of $400,000 is paid by MacDonald, Liston will receive $160,000 immediately.

When asked about Liston's share of other receipts from the February fight, Nixon said, "of the sums received to date, Liston's share amounts to $731,000. However, the taxes and liens filed against Liston by the internal revenue service and by his former manager, George Katz, total $763,000, or approximately $32,000 more than Liston is entitled to."

More Habitual-Criminal Charges Urged

City 'Playland' for Mainland Thugs?

Swift action must be taken to ensure that mainland criminals don't come to regard Victoria as a "playland," city police commission decided yesterday.

"It's significant," Police Chief J. F. Gregory told the commission, "that we are now running into a considerable number of Vancouver criminals over here."

The commission endorsed Chief Gregory's contention that the influx could be stopped by laying charges under the section of the Criminal Code of Canada which provides stiff sentences for habitual criminals.

The chief will discuss the legal aspects of the proposal shortly with prosecutor Peter Birrell.

Law enforcement agencies on the Lower Mainland believe it is fact that more charges are being laid under the habitual criminals section which is driving wrong-doers to seek greener pastures.

"There is need for similar action on our part to make these criminals realize that Victoria is no playground," the police chief said.

Chief Gregory added that exchange of information between local police forces and those on the mainland is assisting all forces in keeping an accurate check on movements of the criminal population.

The commission earlier gave final approval to the 1964 police department budget totalling $2,398,000. This is up $47,846 over 1963 but it includes provision for five extra policemen and creation of a new inspector.

The chief reported that the extra inspector will allow a commissioned officer to be on duty at all times.

In the final cutting of the police budget at a private meeting, chairman Mayor R. B. Wilson later told reporters, items totaling some $23,000 were removed.

Wage increases — including those to civilian staff members — will cost an extra $30,986 this year. Five new constables and the inspector will account for a further $12,276.

The increase in strength will bring the department to 108 members.

The commission instructed that a letter of explanation be sent to Victoria Labor Council which had protested the use of unpaid auxiliary policemen on patrol duty.

Chief Gregory reported that a provincial order-in-council issued in February, 1963, established that auxiliary police may volunteer for in-service training including accompanying regular police patrols.

This has been done in the city at the request of the auxiliary police and at all times they are accompanied by regular patrolmen, the chief said.

Salvation Army

Annual Drive Begins

By KEN JOHNSON

The Salvation Army's annual fund drive swings into action today with nearly 600 workers beginning an intense month-long canvass throughout Greater Victoria.

There will be door-to-door collections, a special names canvass, an appeal to local businesses and industrialists, with special teams asking for donations from federal and provincial government services, hotels and clubs, armed services and at the dockyards in a thorough cross-section of Victoria.

$35,000 GOAL

This year's objective: $35,000. General chairman this year is R. R. Wilde, while campaign director is Brig. R. F. Frewing. There will be about 40 team captains handling groups of 10 or more, working on a carefully-planned schedule for the campaign.

HELP PROJECTS

As in previous years, the money raised will go to help projects like the Harbor Light Centre, the Mason Lodge as well as general social work, plus special emergency funds such as the Port Alberni flood disaster fund.

Last year 76 men were admitted to the Harbor Light Centre, with an average stay of 64 days. Officers held 1,122 personal interviews and conducted 782 meetings and Bible classes.

$13,637 WELFARE

Free or low cost meals totaled 21,472, along with free or low cost beds for 4,627. Cash value of welfare supplied during the year was $13,627.80.

Mason Lodge provided shelter and care for 184 elderly men and women during last year. The average age of present residents is 82.

OTHER SERVICES

Other special services which the Salvation Army hopes to pay for with campaign funds are correctional services, the missing persons bureau and the anti-suicide bureau. Money will also go towards the maintenance of such institutions as the Mary Moore Home and Hospital at Cobble Hill, which provides care for the elderly; Sunset Lodge old folks' shelter, and the Maywood Home and Grace Hospital, which provide confidential refuge for unmarried mothers.

30 Applications For Inspectorship

Nearly 30 applications, some from as far north as Dawson Creek and Fort St. John, have been received for the position of building inspector for Oak Bay, says municipal engineer Geoffrey White. Closing date for applications is May 15.

Mishap with Cleaner Points Up Campaign

TEUNIS SLAGBOOM

Two Saanich children had a brush with death yesterday—just three days before observance of Child Safety Day designated by the provincial cabinet.

The children, Tracy Jarvinen, 2, and her 11-month-old sister Kelly, of 363 Ker, were treated and released from hospital after eating from a can of lye-based drain cleaner.

They were taken by Saanich fire department ambulance to Royal Jubilee Hospital shortly after 1 p.m., where they were treated for minor throat and mouth burns.

The government proclaimed Sunday as Child Safety Day in B.C. in conjunction with the B.C. Safety Council's campaign to reduce the number of accidents to children in the province.

PARENTAL EXAMPLE

The council has asked aid in reducing the number of fatal accidents to children under 15 years — 129 in 1963 — and suggests parental good example as the best weapon.

Drowning, fire, traffic, falls and poisoning were listed as the main child-killers last year.

The council asked particular attention to safety by householders during spring cleaning, when household cleaning aids and pesticides are in evidence in many homes.

Mrs. Merle Jarvinen, mother of the children who had the narrow escape, wholeheartedly endorsed the safety campaign.

"The top shelf in the cupboard is empty and you can be sure that is where all that kind of stuff is going to be stored from now on," she said.

Mrs. Jarvinen was in a bedroom folding diapers when Tracy came in, white about the mouth and looking ill. She ran into the kitchen and found the baby still playing with the cleaner can.

FEEDING BABY

"I think her sister had been feeding it to her," said Mrs. Jarvinen.

The mother ran next door and telephoned the family doctor, who in turn called Saanich fire department.

"We were lucky the children hadn't swallowed any of it," Mrs. Jarvinen said.

Bank Holdup Sentencing Due May 7

A Montreal gunman who participated in a Saanich bank holdup a week ago will be sentenced for his crime May 7. Jean Chasleau Robitaille, 29, pleaded guilty to armed robbery earlier this week after being arrested in a Victoria hotel room.

He appeared in police court yesterday and was remanded to May 7 for sentence.

Robitaille admitted being one of four men who took $7,300 from the Saanich branch of the Bank of Montreal about 6 p.m.

Old Labor Centre for Police

Victoria police department will establish temporary headquarters in the former labor council building on Pandora this fall while the police building on Flaggard is being renovated.

This was disclosed by Commissioner Gordon Carter at a meeting of the police commission with city council yesterday to approve the police department budget.

Mr. Carter said cells in the new provincial law courts will serve as a lock-up for city prisoners. The police department will have to provide jailers and matrons.

Reconstruction of the present police headquarters building is expected to start in September and will take about nine months to complete.

Pearson Tells House:

Ottawa Not Informed Of B.C.'s Aid Needs

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson told the Commons, Wednesday, Sunday, that so far as he is aware, the British Columbia government hasn't indicated the amount of money required from the federal government for assisting victims of the Good Friday tidal wave.

Mr. Pearson was replying for Resources Minister Laing, not in the chamber at the time.

George Chatterton (PC, Esquimalt-Saanich) asked whether the government is considering a direct grant without waiting for the provincial request.

Mr. Pearson said the government would follow the normal procedure of waiting for a request from the provincial government.

Laing to Tour Albernis

PORT ALBERNI—Resources Minister Laing has asked to meet people of the community to discuss federal participation in disaster relief here.

Mr. Laing announced in telegrams to the mayors of the Twin Cities that he will be in the area Sunday to tour the disaster area during the afternoon, and suggested that arrangements be made for the meeting in the evening.

He will leave for Vancouver Monday morning.

Albernis Point to Campbell River

'4,000 Own Fine Airport'

PORT ALBERNI—"Here is a community of just 4,000 people owning a fine airport with municipal assets valued at over $30,000," a spokesman for Alberni Valley airport committee remarked when he reported on a letter received from the municipality of Campbell River.

Vince Glenn, chairman of the committee set up here to study ways and means of providing this area with an airport, said that at a recent meeting the group had received some sound advice and information from Campbell River.

He also reported that the committee received a "very encouraging letter" from Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi.

$19,000 LOSSES

At the meeting, the president of Alberni Flying Club, Bill Scott, reported losses suffered in the last six months by the club and its members had amounted to over $19,000.

Over $8,000 damage had been done to planes in a windstorm last fall and hangars had been severely damaged. In the tidal wave on March 28, there had been $11,000 damage to six planes while the new lumber for repairing and replacing hangars had been lost, according to the report.

Probation, Fines For Youth

NANAIMO — A 19-year-old Nanaimo youth appeared before Magistrate Lionel Beavor-Potts Thursday and was fined, given a term of probation and a tongue-lashing.

Ronald Arthur Phillips pleaded guilty to five charges. Two of them arose Jan. 17 when Phillips was the driver of a car which struck and killed an elderly pedestrian at Halliburton Street.

$60 IN FINES

Magistrate Beavor-Potts fined the youth a total of $60 for driving with a learner's licence and having no adult in the car; being a minor without insurance; allowing a minor without a driver's licence to drive his car, and being a minor in possession of beer.

He was given a year's probation for being in charge of a car with no licence plates. Magistrate Beavor-Potts said Phillips would not be allowed to own a driver's licence or a car and would be under a 10 p.m. curfew during the probation period.

"You break those terms and I shall deal with you in another manner," said the magistrate. "I'm not fooling. You are very lucky I haven't dropped on you really hard. If you break your probation it will be rather drastic, all because of your own foolishness. I'm fed up with you being in trouble time after time after time."

Apathy, Interference Found in Recreation

NANAIMO — A survey taken in School District 60 here indicated residents of the area are not happy with recreational facilities.

A 12-member recreation survey committee, set up last fall with B. W. Savory as chairman, reported a serious lack of active public interest and charged much of the recreation work done by unpaid volunteers is "hampered by groups and individuals with vested interests."

5000 FORMS USED

The survey covered social recreation facilities for all members of the family and was carried out through questionnaires submitted to families through local schools. Of 5,000 forms distributed, more than 1,000 were returned and 900 were usable.

FINDINGS

The committee, which met weekly to formulate statistics, found:

• A majority of residents favor a community centre available to all residents of the school district.

• A great amount of over-lapping of services in some areas, and a lack of many facilities in others.

The committee recommended:

• A central community centre with a professional social group worker in charge to provide continuous operation.

• Hiring of a professional group to carry out a thorough evaluation, because of the large amount of work involved and the need for a more complete picture of district recreation needs.

YW-YM RULED OUT

The committee ruled out a YW-YMCA because of "obvious religious restrictions which would affect some groups," and because this would necessitate a recreation funds being poured into a national organization rather than into projects within the boundaries of the school district.

The committee suggested a community centre should provide activities for persons of all ages, religious faiths, and race and urged it be under the direction of the present civic properties and recreation commission.

Scout Wins Honor

PARKSVILLE — The highest honor in scouting, the Queen Scout badge, was presented to Gordon Leffer, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Leffer of Parksville at the annual Father and Son banquet held here recently.

Gordon is the second member of the same family to receive the coveted award. His brother Mark received the honor in 1962. The presentation of the award was made by the Rev. Father W. H. Bullock of Qualicum Beach, who said requirements leading up to the Queen's Scout badge represent the highest form of service that a scout can give his community.

"A boy who has attained this badge is made of the best stuff there is," he said.

King Fisherman Contest Starts Today

The 1964 edition of The Daily Colonist King Fisherman Contest started this morning at the crack of dawn and will continue until Oct. 31. More than 200 weigh-in stations—from Oak Bay to Port

McNeill, and from Parksville on the east coast to Tofino on the west coast—stand ready to weigh fish into the contest. Wherever you fish, you will find a handy weigh-in station. Actually the King Fisherman contest is seven contests in one: six monthly competitions for hidden-weight prizes and buttons for the biggest fish in each category; six-month-long contest for trophies for the biggest fish in each category and hidden-weight prizes including a trip for two to New Zealand by Canadian Pacific Airlines, a weekend camping-fishing trip with Vancouver Island Helicopters, an aluminum carport boat and other prizes. (For best bets to catch contest fish this weekend, see

Alec Merriman's column on Page 15.) Everyone who fishes Vancouver Island waters, except holders of commercial fishing licences and fishing guides, is eligible to enter the contest. You don't have to be a

Colonist subscriber to enter, but it pays to be a subscriber. Only Colonist subscribers are eligible for merchandise prizes like the New Zealand trip. Salmon must weigh five pounds or more and trout and bass one pound or more.

$50,000,000 Bond Issue For Peace

VANCOUVER (CP) — A new $50,000,000 provincial party bond issue to finance part of the Peace River hydro project was announced Thursday night by Premier Bennett.

Bennett:

Socreds Outdo Them All

VANCOUVER (CP) — Premier Bennett said Thursday night the aim of his Social Credit government has been to provide British Columbians with "enlightened capitalism."

To this end, he said, Social Credit has tried to "take the best elements of every worthwhile point of view—the best of the so-called left, right and centre—and put them to work in meeting today's necessities and preparing for tomorrow's challenges."

As a result, his government had been "more conservative than the Conservatives in financial matters, more liberal than the Liberals in terms of providing the nation's highest old-age and social assistance benefits, and even more in favor of public ownership than the CCF because of our ferry system and hydro program."

Speaking to Vancouver Junior Chamber of Commerce, the premier said the government expropriated the B.C. Electric Co. in 1961 because it had to choose between "high-cost private power and low-cost public power."

He said power rates in B.C. were high because of corporation taxes the BCE had to pay to the federal government and because the BCE wasn't interested in "massive hydro developments that would make low-cost power a reality."

The government had finally decided that for B.C.'s development "the choice was obvious."

"In fact, it was a choice between jobs and no jobs for our ever-increasing population."

Soviets Whisk Spy Onto Paris Flight

MONTREAL (CP)—Vasily Tarasov, the Soviet correspondent expelled from Canada for spying activities, left Thursday night for Paris aboard a regularly-scheduled commercial carrier.

Tarasov arrived at Montreal's international airport in suburban Dorval in a Russian embassy car and was whisked through a crowd of reporters and into a jet aircraft.

He was to board a Moscow-bound Russian plane in Paris.

Cuba Trade

Blunt LBJ Jars Butler

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson used a rather blunt approach to impress on British Foreign Secretary R. A. Butler U.S. annoyance at Britain's continued trade with Cuba.

It was learned that the president spoke with exceptional force when he met briefly with Butler in Washington earlier this week. It was understood Butler was somewhat taken aback with the president's direct approach.

RELATIONS AT LOW EBB
The episode led some observers to conclude that Britain's continued trade with Cuba had brought Anglo-American relations to a low ebb.

The U.S. reaction apparently came in the nature of a surprise to Butler.

WARNED BY RUSK
Butler received his first warning that trouble was on the way when he met Secretary of State Rusk.

Rusk told him President Johnson was annoyed Britain should sell not only additional buses to Cuba but also locomotives and cranes, protesting this trade was of insignificant proportion.

It is understood Rusk made the point that if this trade was small then why did Britain

TCA, CPA Overseas Runs

ORDER: INTEGRATE

OTTAWA (CP)—Trans-Canada Air Lines and Canadian Pacific Airlines have been told to integrate their overseas services under a new air transport policy announced Thursday night by Transport Minister Pickersgill.

The new policy, announced to reporters after the Commons adjournment — a procedural wrangle took up the time in which Mr. Pickersgill planned to make the statement — advocated a non-competitive and non-conflicting plan for the international services of both airlines.

Mr. Pickersgill said he met Monday with CNR President Donald Gordon, CPR President N. R. Crump, TCA President Gordon McGregor and CPA President Grant MacConachie.

Talks between the two airlines started immediately, he said, and "very considerable clarification" could be expected by the end of May.

The transport minister said that any agreement reached between the two airlines on how

B.C. Foursome Held As Dope Smugglers

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Two men and two women, Canadians from the Vancouver area, were arrested on a heroin smuggling charge as they crossed the border from Tijuana, Mex., Thursday, customs agents said.

Four ounces of heroin were found hidden on the two women, agent John Maxcy said. He said the heroin would have been worth about $50,000 on the Canadian black market.

SUSPECTS
Arrested were James Campbell, 26, an unemployed bricklayer, Vancouver, his wife, Gloria Jean Campbell, 23, Richmond, Melody Joan Curtis, 22, Vancouver, and Thomas F. Berrigan, 39, Vancouver.

DRUG EQUIPMENT
Maxcy said narcotics paraphernalia was found in a motel room near the border which the Campbells occupied. He said Campbell had been under surveillance and had made a number of trips from Vancouver to Tijuana during the past year.

All four have been charged with smuggling heroin and a hearing before a U.S. commissioner was set for this afternoon.

'Closure' Cries Ring in House

OTTAWA (CP) — Amid cries of "closure," the Commons' experimental late-night adjournment debate session exploded into a procedural uproar Thursday night.

In spite of vain attempts by Deputy Speaker Lucien Lamoureux to maintain order, MPs wrangled over points of order and privilege with the result that only one of the scheduled three 10-minute debates took place.

STATEMENT BLOCKED
Transport Minister Pickersgill was precluded from making an expected statement on air policy in the Commons, and Heath Macquarrie (PC — Queens) was unable to speak on the proposed Passamaquoddy perimeter late-night adjournment debate session.

The uproar broke out when Eugene Rheaume (PC—Northwest Territories) tried to interrupt a question by David G. Hahn (L—Toronto Broadview) on air police on a point of privilege.

POINT OF PRIVILEGE

The deputy speaker said no points of privilege or order could be raised during the adjournment debates, which began for the first time last week.

Erik Nielsen (PC — Yukon) asked where the rules showed this to be so.

Only Canada's Rivers, Trees Like Russia

TORONTO (UPI) — The last article written for the Soviet newspaper Izvestia by ousted journalist Vasily Tarasov, ordered out of Canada for spying, emphasized that similarities between Russia and Canada ended after geographical considerations.

The translated article said: "It is only the landscape of Canada, its stormy or quietly-flowing rivers surrounded by forests and silvery birch growths, the dark green wall of coniferous trees that remind you of your homeland."

"All the rest has the standard stamp of the world which is called the West," the article added.

The article appeared in a recent weekly edition of Nedeiya, the Sunday supplement of Izvestia.

The article about Canada—"Prosperity and Its Shadow"—told Russian readers that although Canada was a vast country, it had a population of only 19,000,000 and "is in constant need of immigrants to supplement its markets of a cheap labor force."

"This question is of such vast importance," the article added, "the government was forced to establish a special ministry."

Tarasov, speaking about the varieties of nations represented in the Canadian population, said all languages could be heard at "the counter of dime stores overloaded with inferior mass-produced merchandise. (It is assumed that in these stores one can obtain cheaply all the necessities for his families.)

"These languages also are heard at the show windows of the rich Wall Street-type establishment with their shouting, advertising merry-go-round from which arises anguish,"

King Fisherman Contest Starts Today

The 1964 edition of The Daily Colonist King Fisherman Contest started this morning at the crack of dawn and will continue until Oct. 31. More than 200 weigh-in stations—from Oak Bay to Port

McNeill, and from Parksville on the east coast to Tofino on the west coast—stand ready to weigh fish into the contest. Wherever you fish, you will find a handy weigh-in station. Actually the King Fisherman contest is seven contests in one: six monthly competitions for hidden-weight prizes and buttons for the biggest fish in each category; six-month-long contest for trophies for the biggest fish in each category and hidden-weight prizes including a trip for two to New Zealand by Canadian Pacific Airlines, a weekend camping-fishing trip with Vancouver Island Helicopters, an aluminum car-top boat and other prizes. (For best bets to catch contest fish this weekend, see

Alec Merriman's column on Page 15.) Everyone who fishes Vancouver Island waters, except holders of commercial fishing licences and fishing guides, is eligible to enter the contest. You don't have to be a Colonist subscriber to enter, but it pays to be a subscriber. Only Colonist subscribers are eligible for merchandise prizes like the New Zealand trip. Salmon must weigh five pounds or more and trout and bass one pound or more.
